DEPAUW · UNIVERSITY
GREENCASTLE INDIANA

a century of old depauw

When Indiana was an almost unbroken wilderness and Greencastle a twelve-year-old village of five hundred, two coatless students enrolled in Asbury College. They were the first student body and the faculty out-numbered them eight to two. However, the next year the college increased by leaps and bounds to a student body of eleven, and the school may be said to have really begun at this time. In bidding for Asbury, Greencastle had gained precedence over Putnamville, Rockville, Indianapolis, and Madison. One of the many reasons given was that this was the most beautiful spot in this section of Indiana.

Primitive was the only word which described the new college. The faculty taught and tended the meadows, lectured and kept the livestock from despoiling the campus. For these extra tasks they were given the hay which grew on the campus in order that they might keep some livestock of their own. Since there were no dormitories, and the current price for a week's room and board was the prodigious sum of a dollar and a half, most of the students "bached" for themselves. Their life was strictly regulated. Chapel was compulsory, as was attendance at some church on Sunday morning and at some lecture in the afternoon; the student had to be in his room or at some lecture during recitation hours, and at home at night unless he attended a religious meeting or some other meeting allowed by the faculty. Dancing was outlawed until 1926. Strangely enough the university liberalized to the extent of accepting co-education in 1867, even over the sharp protest of a student petition.

Asbury progressed through the nineteenth century, until it struck a financial snag in 1882. Bankruptcy seemed imminent, but at the crucial moment Washington C. DePauw gave to the school a sum which he had set aside to found a college at his death. On January 1, 1884, Asbury became DePauw in deference to his generosity.

In the early days oratory and debate were the leading student activities. The first ventures into athletics were unforunate fiascos. Wabash trounced the Old Gold baseball nine in 1866, 45 to 32. This probably gave rise to the traditional rivalry between the schools.

DePauw celebrated the Columbian Anniversary in 1892, and certain alumni brought the now historic boulder to the DePauw campus to be the central point in the celebration. This year DePauw is holding another celebration, and the thought of past greatness and of men who have attended classes here makes the present student body and alumni expect an even greater century to have passed for DePauw by the year two thousand thirty-seven.

campus - not so long ago

At the inauguration of President Wildman great men came to walk in the snow, eat lunch, and to congratulate him, and DePauw University too.

the administration

When universities were first conceived, their regulation was a simple matter. At best the rule of the majority was the highest form of government, and indeed it was sufficient. For then there were no huge endowments to be invested and preserved, no buildings and campus to be cared for, no large faculty to regulate, and no great student body to superintend. The educational system was a matter of personal relationship between a lecturer and his class. But in educational evolution a tremendous growth has been effected so that now neither the student body nor the faculty is the dominant part of a university. Rather it is the administration which is recognized to be of primary importance.

As DePauw entered her hundredth year, Doctor Clyde E. Wildman was selected to direct his alma mater into her second century. His every action during this first year has been the epitome of loyalty, sincerity, and faithfulness. He has shown an unfeigned and profound interest in the life of the university—an interest which has led him to his present eminent position as DePauw's new chief executive, the respected leader of the university.

DR. CLYDE E. WILDMAN was graduated from DePauw in 1913 and received his S.T.B. degree from Boston University in 1916. He received his Ph.D. from Boston in 1926 and was honored by Cornell College in 1927 with the degree of Doctor of Divinity. Doctor Wildman is a member of the American Association of University Professors, the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, the Itinerants, Clerics Club, and Phi Beta Kappa. He is listed in "Who's Who in America." DR. WILLIAM MARTIN BLANCHARD has been a professor of chemistry since 1901 and Dean of DePauw's Liberal Arts College since 1927. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Chemical Society, and the National Economics League. He received his A.B. degree in 1891, his A.M. in 1897 at Randolph Macon, and his Ph.D. in 1900 at Johns Hopkins University. DEAN ROBERT G. McCUTCHAN, six years a newspaperman, is Dean of DePauw's School of Music. He attended Park College, 1893-91, has studied music in Berlin and Paris. Rich in the knowledge of church music, he recently edited the "New Methodist Hymnal" (1935). He received his Bachelor of Music degree in 1904, his Doctor of Music degree in 1927 from Simpson College. In 1935 Southern Methodist University also gave him a Doctor of Music degree. DEAN LOUIS H. DIRKS became Dean of Men at DePauw in 1926. In addition to his administrative work, he teaches several courses in the department of education. Until 1911 he taught German in the Bloomington and New Albany high schools. Then he became the head of the German department at Shortridge High School, Indianapolis. From 1919 to 1926 he was the assistant principal of Shortridge. He received his A.B. degree in 1906 and his A.M. degree in 1925, both from Indiana University. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. DEAN HELEN C. SALZER was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1910, and received her A.M. from Columbia University in 1931. She is a member of the National Association of Deans of Women, Indiana State Association of Deans of Women and Advisers of Girls, National Education Association, American Association of University Women, and Mortar Board. DEAN G. HERBERT SMITH, for five years Assistant Dean of Men at Illinois University, has been Dean of Freshman Men at DePauw since 1932 and is also director of the Rector Scholarship Foundation. He has been national secretary of Phi Eta Sigma since 1928, and is general secretary of Beta Theta Pi. He received his A.B. degree from DePauw in 1927, and his A.M. from Illinois in 1928. MISS VENETA KUNTER is the DePauw registrar. She received her A.B. degree from DePauw in 1927, became the assistant registrar of the university the next fall, and in 1933 was promoted to her present position. MR. F. RUSSELL ALEXANDER, since 1929 the director of publicity, has the important duty of keeping DePauw before the public eye. He is also the executive secretary of the DePauw Alumni Association, and has taught classes in sports writing at alumni conventions of the Indiana High School Press Association. He received his A.B. degree from DePauw in 1925. MR. RALPH E. SCHENCK, who is a graduate of the school of architecture of the University of Illinois, holds one of the most important administrative offices as the comptroller of the school. He is not often met by the student body, yet his position is one of great responsibility.

It is the DePauw Board of Trustees and their predecessors who are responsible for much of the university's growth and success. The charter of Indiana Asbury provided for a board of twenty-five who should control the property, finances, and business of the university. Now there are approximately forty members on the board, which now meets four times a year instead of once. It is impossible to enumerate the services done by the board, but as one reviews the history of the school one sees their wisdom in the choice of presidents and professors, in the construction of Asbury Hall which was largely their gift, and in many other policies and gifts. They have contributed an inestimable amount to the hundred years' advance of DePauw University.

This committee has equal representation from the student body and the faculty and considers all suggestions, requests, and communications from the student body. It is within the province of this committee to arrange the social calendar, determining dates for all dances and parties as well as for all student plays and senior activities. It also has the authority to penalize any organization violating social regulations and rules for intiation. Kermit Arnold has been chairman of this committee during the past year.

The Student Executive Board is made up of fifteen students elected by the Hare system of voting. The candidates are chosen at a convention held a few weeks previous to the election. The president of the Board is also president of the student body. This year the outstanding services of the Student Executive Board included the sponsorship of the Old Gold Day play in the Little Theater and the petition which gained a Thanksgiving vacation for the student body. The officers this year were Kermit Arnold, president; Dorothy Haas, vice-president; Mary Ellen Voyles, secretary; and Randall Booty, treasurer.

At a meeting of the student senate, the old governing unit of the DePauw student body, a new constitution was adopted on March 17, 1936, which abolished the old form of government in favor of a new system. The essential points of the new system were the election of the Student Executive Board of fifteen members by the student body and the election of the Student Affairs Committee at the same time and from the same panel of nominees. A new system of proportional representation known as the Hare system was also introduced at this time. Under the Hare system of balloting, voters make their choice by ranking all candidates in order of their preference. The Student Affairs Committee and the Student Executive Board afford a government which is both efficient and mobile; the election system promises to insure a satisfactory form of student government.

Students ponder over their ballots in the Mirage office as they select the outstanding seniors of the year of the centennial.

alumni officers — 1937

those who were

Although DePauw University has had an alumni association of some kind since 1876, the present organization was incorporated in 1923. At that time W. Henry McLean, '10, became alumni secretary. Despite the by-law revisions, the organization remains virtually the same. The Association is composed of all graduates and former students who had more than one year of residence on the campus. It has compiled a record of more than eight thousand living alumni, six thousand of which are graduates with degrees. The DePauw alumni are widely spread, a few living in every state in the union and in thirty-six foreign countries. Fifty-four per cent live in the state of Indiana; eleven per cent in Illinois; and five per cent in Ohio; so that seventy per cent are to be found in states adjacent to the school itself. New York and California are the next ranking states, and only about one per cent live abroad. In Indiana alumni are to be found in every county except one. Marion county (Indianapolis) leads the list with approximately eight hundred, or seventeen and one half per cent; Putnam county is next with three hundred. The present officers are Francis Calvin Tilden, '97, Greencastle, president; H. Philip Maxwell, '21, Chicago, first vice-president; Mrs. A. T. Briggs, '91, Greencastle, second vice-president; Betty Lou Hunter, '31, Paris, Illinois, secretary; Edith I. Browning, '27, Greencastle.

treasurer; and Russell Alexander, '25, executive secretary. The affairs of the Association are handled by a board of twenty-one alumni duly elected by the alumni at large. Each graduation class is represented by a class secretary, and these are all honorary members of the board. The Alumni Association is represented in the management of the university by having four members on the board of trustees; at present they are Kenneth C. Hogate, '18, New York City; Harvey B. Hartsock, '11, Indianapolis; James B. Ogden, '94, Indianapolis; and Howard W. Sheperd, '16, New York City. To encourage their meeting the alumni are organized geographically in clubs, prominent among which are the clubs at Los Angeles, Chicago, Indianapolis, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Seattle, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Louisville, and a large number in smaller communities in Indiana. The Alumni Association publishes a monthly magazine in the interest of DePauw graduates, and Mr. Russell Alexander, the executive secretary, is editor. The alumni office of the university keeps a complete record and index of DePauw alumni and their activities. The purpose of the Association is to foster the feeling of loyalty among the alumni for their alma mater, and to keep the alumni informed on current university affairs.

Of those who have graduated from DePauw many have found great fame for themselves in the affairs of the world. DePauw has contributed men and women to every profession and to every art, and renown has come to the school through the achievements of her graduates. Several years ago a page of outstanding alumni was published with the MIRAGE and the centennial editors considered the inclusion of such a page a prime requisite. Naturally not inclusive our selection has aimed more at the representative and includes Mr. Charles Beard, historian and economist; Mr. Philip Maxwell of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE; Mr. Lilienthal, the Director of the TVA; Mr. Jewett, former mayor of Indianapolis and a prominent civic leader; Mr. Kenneth C. Hogate of the WALL STREET JOURNAL, and of Dow and Jones; and Mr. Roy O. West, former cabinet member and still a prominent Chicago attorney.

And far be it from us to deny it for Lucy Ann ranked tops scholastically her freshman year and kept it up to get Phi Bete this year. She was Big Sister Chairman, wore the Junior Ring, was Assistant Editor of last year's MIRAGE and made Mortar Board—but we can't tell everything because there isn't room. To top it all Lucy Ann is a grand person too.

seniors of 1937

DePauw's Centennial class was headed by Bert Kriete, president; Robert Neighbours, vice-president; Katherine Farquhar, secretary; and Marjorie Swenson and Don Vivian, committee members. As an innovation the class held a senior dinner in the spring under the direction of Van Holman and his committee of Lucy Ann Balch and Beryl Zimmerman. This dinner will probably become a traditional activity of future senior classes. For the annual senior week Dorothy Haas was general chairman and planned all the events with the assistance of Rosemary Walker, Wendell Lanning, Pauline Megenity, and Jack O'Neill. Mock Chapel was written and directed by a committee of Randall Booty, John Hillis, John Martin, Dan Ragon, and Lee Hall. Other senior committees were the committee on invitations with Herbert Parman as chairman; the caps and gowns committee, headed by Owen Davison; the gift committee, whose chairman was Veragrace Wass; and the senior dance committee, under the direction of Charles Cooper.

One of the most active classes in school is always the junior class, and its activities seem to have doubled during the centennial year. Of course the high spot of the year was the prom produced by prom chairman Jack Grady with the assistance of the class committee, Robert DeWar, Harold Downey, Louise Lindley, Robert Morgan, and Tom Clinton, president. With the help of the dancers' imagination and the work of the decorating committee headed by M. J. Moore, the gym became for the evening a tropical island. Ted Weems and his band made the prom an epic in DePauw history; and as queen, Betty Gillies was the lovely leader of the grand march. The second of the two junior undertakings was the centennial MIRAGE, edited by Rolla McDonald and published with Karl Gambell as business manager. Last year the junior ring was awarded to Louise Lindley who has worn it during the year as the outstanding girl in her class. The juniors will graduate in 1938 as the first class of the new century of DePauw.

Juniors Officers:

Thomas Clinton
president

Robert Morgan
vice-president

Harold Downey
treasurer

The prom brought Ted Weems' big time band to town . . . the students hope it will stand as a precedent for future proms . . . and go so far as to say that Kappa's Betty Gillies is the tops in queens for many a long moon.

The class of 1939 surveys the completed half of its college career with mingled feelings of amazement at the speed with which time has passed and of eagerness at the thought of becoming upper-classmen next year. It is an active class. Last year it re-established the tradition of the green-capped freshman; this year it began what will probably become a new tradition—a Queen of Hearts. At their dance, on February 8, they crowned Luise Baum as their elected queen for the Valentine season. She was attended by Marjorie Raiser and Vera Bundy as maids-in-waiting. McCartney's orchestra provided the swing for the dance. The officers of the class of 1939 during its sophomore year were Lewis Hitchner, president; Joe Barr, vice-president; and Vera Bundy, secretary-treasurer.

After the initial confusion of orientation week, registration, and rush, the freshmen found themselves in the swing of life at DePauw and have had no trouble in remaining there. That they have readily adapted themselves may be seen by the excellent scholastic record which the class has already made, as well as by the number of outstanding athletes which it has produced. Their most conspicious achievement this year, however, was the Hallowe'en dance on October 31, with Van Miller's Indianapolis band providing music and entertainment. Decorations were appropriately rustic—even to a few stray field mice. The freshman class committee was chosen by a popular campus vote in the early fall. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Betty Burge, chairman; Miriam Campbell, vice-chairman; and James Edgar, secretary-treasurer.

A glance at what has occupied the activities of Kermit Arnold, here-after to be known as Butch, for this year is enough to reveal why he was chosen by Mortar Board as the most popular senior man. Varsity tackle on the Old Gold grid team, he also starred in "Ceiling Zero" of Duzer Du, and presided as president of the student body. He is president of three other organizations besides—Kappa Tau Kappa, Duzer Du, and the "D" Association. No one could be on the campus very long without knowing Butch's grin. Maybe that's his secret—anyway he has something.

kappa tau kappa

The inter-fraternity council was founded in 1902 and is one of the oldest honoraries at DePauw. Membership is determined by a selection of one from a panel of three offered by each house to the active Kappa Tau men. With the avowed purpose of promoting good will between the fraternities, and between the organizations and the administration, the men meet each Sunday night to eat steaks and weigh heavy problems. Rush, Old Gold Day awards, and university dances have been the main fruits of Kappa Tau labor this year. The officers were Kermit Arnold, president; Lucas Fischer, vice-president; and Warren Davies, secretary-treasurer.

Beta Theta Pi was founded at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, on August 13, 1839. Eight men under the leadership of John Reily Knox banded together to form the first of what later became known as the Miami Triad of national fraternities. There are now eighty-nine chapters of Beta Theta Pi located in the United States and Canada.

Delta chapter of Beta Theta Pi was chartered at DePauw University in 1845. This was the first chapter of a Greek letter fraternity to be established in Indiana. The house built shortly after the founding of Delta chapter was the first west of the Alleghenies to be used as a fraternity dwelling. The fireplace in the present chapter house on Anderson Street is the one which stood in the original building.

Delta chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Murray Hutchinson, president; Wendell Simpson, vice-president; Joseph Sparks, secretary; and John Hillis, treasurer.

phi gamma delta

Alpha chapter of Phi Gamma Delta was founded at Jefferson College in Cannonsburg, Pennsylvania, on May 1, 1848. The constitution and ritual of the fraternity were drawn up by six college men at the suggestion of John Templeton McCarty. A conservative policy of expansion was adopted. At present the chapter roll includes seventy-three active organizations. The total membership of the fraternity is approaching three thousand.

In 1856, Lambda chapter of Phi Gamma Delta was granted its charter by the national fraternity. When the present dwelling of Lambda was built in 1921, Dr. W. W. Carson of the history department laid the cornerstone.

Many earlier chapters of Phi Gamma Delta were forced to disband temporarily during the years of the Civil War. Lamba chapter is consequently the oldest chapter in the fraternity to maintain a continuous existence.

Lambda officers for the year 1936-37 were Donald Vivian, president; Joseph Kopta, treasurer; Jack O'Neill, secretary.

Sigma Chi, one of the Miami Triad, was founded June 20, 1855, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Already existing organizations opposed the establishment of the new fraternity. However, the founders persisted, and by the time of the outbreak of the Civil War there were eleven chapters of Sigma Chi. During the war four more chapters were chartered. The fraternity has grown steadily until there are now ninety-seven chapters in the United States.

Xi of Sigma Chi was granted its charter at DePauw in 1859. For two years the new chapter flourished, but the war scattered its members. Only one returned. He built the organization which has continued to expand and develop into its present position on the DePauw campus.

Xi chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Robert Fisher, president; William Brandt, vice-president; Jack Hite, treasurer; and Jonathan Wolfe, secretary.

phi kappa psi

At Jefferson College in 1852 there was an epidemic of typhoid. Among those ministering to the ill a warm friendship was formed which led to the organization of the fraternal bond of Phi Kappa Psi on February 19, 1852. The leaders were Charles P. T. Moore and William H. Letterman. After an unsuccessful attempt to found a chapter at Union College in 1853, Moore established the second chapter at the University of Virginia. While at first it remained largely an eastern fraternity, ultimately Phi Kappa Psi spread throughout the country.

In 1865 an eastern delegation arrived to initiate the local chapter which met above the Opera House. Phi Kappa Psi is now one of the strongest fraternities at DePauw and owns one of the outstanding fraternity houses on the campus.

delta kappa epsilon

Delta Kappa Epsilon, universally known as DKE, was founded at Yale University, June 22, 1844. The immediate motive for its establishment was the disappointment of a group of close friends when some of their number failed to be elected to the junior honoraries, Psi Upsilon and Alpha Delta Pi. The entire group proceeded to form a new Greek letter fraternity. The growth of this organization was rapid, especially in the south under the direction of Henry Hitchcock. Bowdoin and Princeton followed Yale University quickly in establishing chapters, and only the Civil War delayed the growth of the new fraternity.

Mrs. Kay

Psi Phi chapter, the only Deke chapter in Indiana, was founded at DePauw in 1866. The fraternity now has forty-seven active chapters and more than twenty-five thousand actives enrolled.

Psi Phi chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Daniel Ragon, president; James Warriner, vice-president; Paul Barton, secretary; and James Gregory, treasurer.

phi delta theta

The second member of the famous Miami Triad is Phi Delta Theta, founded at Miami University in Oxford on December 26, 1848. Today it ranks as the largest fraternity, with one hundred and four chapters in the United States and Canada, and with a roll of more than thirty-five thousand active members. Robert Morrison and John Wilson, two of the six founders, were the authors of the bond of Phi Delta Theta.

Twenty years after the founding of the fraternity, Indiana Zeta was established on the DePauw campus. Today it is one of the most active organizations on the campus, holding the inter-fraternity sing trophy this year and being co-champion with Phi Kappa Psi in last year's intramurals for men.

Indiana Zeta officers for the year 1936-37 were Charles Sandberg, president; Alwin Cramer, treasurer; and Rolla McDonald, secretary.

At Bethany College in Virginia in 1858 Delta Tau Delta was informally organized. In 1859 the formal organization was held, at which time the motto, the badge, and the constitution were adopted. In 1886 this organization united with a famous old southern fraternity which had been known variousiy as the Rainbow and W.W.W. The combined organizations, the modern Delta Tau Delta, now comprise a total of seventy-five active chapters and about twenty-two thousand active members.

The local chapter, Beta Beta, was established in 1871 as the seventh fraternity of DePauw University. During its early years the chapter house was the old Taylor mansion. In 1927 the fraternity built its new house on the same site but set it farther back from the street to provide a more spacious lawn.

Beta Beta chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Van Holman, president; George Guckenberger, vice-president; Stuart Watson, recording secretary; M. J. Moore, treasurer.

delta upsilon

Delta Upsilon is the oldest national fraternity having a chapter on the DePauw campus. It was founded in 1834 at Williams College as a protest against secret social fraternities. For many years members of Delta Upsilon campaigned actively against secret organizations. More recently, however, the fraternity has changed its policy from one of anti-secrecy to one of non-secrecy; the laws, rituals, and insignia of the fraternity are open alike to initiated and uninitiated. There are now fifty-six active chapters of Delta Upsilon in the United States and five in Canada.

Mrs. Goodbar

The DePauw chapter of Delta Upsilon was granted its charter in 1887 upon the petition of a locally organized Barb Society. This chapter, too, carries out the fraternity tradition of non-secrecy.

DePauw chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were John DeWolfe, president; Russel Hummel, vice-president; Richard Geckler, secretary; and Jack Snyder, treasurer.

Sigma Nu was founded by a group of students from the Legion of Honor at the Virginia Military Academy. The fraternity was formally organized on January 1, 1860, by Greenfield Quarles, James Riley, and James Hopkins. In the years since its founding, Sigma Nu has grown to include ninety-eight collegiate chapters located in forty-six states. There are now approximately thirty-two thousand active members. The White Star of Sigma Nu is fashioned in emulation of the cross of the Legion of Honor.

Mrs. Rine

Beta Beta chapter of Sigma Nu was organized at DePauw in 1890. Since 1922 Sigma Nu has been proud of its Thibedeaux. The line of St. Bernards has remained unbroken for six generations and promises to continue so for many more. The huge dogs have become a tradition on the DePauw campus.

Beta Beta chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Randall Booty, president; Gifford Crosby, vice-president; Philip Tuttle, secretary; and George Cairns, house manager.

In the spring of 1880, twelve men founded Delta Chi at Cornell University; but in deference to the serious opposition of the school to Greek letter fraternities is remained sub rosa until it gained recognition in October, 1890. At its inception Delta Chi was a legal fraternity; and in order to cement the bond, membership in other professional fraternities was forbidden. It was as a professional fraternity that Delta Chi was established at DePauw in 1892. However, with the removal of the School of Law from DePauw the organization was temporarily disbanded. But when Delta Chi became a purely social fraternity in 1922, the DePauw chapter re-appeared. Since this change in national policy, growth has been rapid, and the present membership is more than eight thousand. Each year Delta Chi consecrates May 1 as the Memorial Day for deceased members; Founders' Day is October 13.

DePauw chapter officers of Delta Chi for the year 1936-37 were Owen Davison, president; Allen Pullman, vice-president; Charles Williams, secretary; and Bertrand Kriete, treasurer.

lambda chi alpha

Lambda Chi Alpha, founded at Boston University in 1909, grew out of the Cosmopolitan Law Club, which had been organized there for several years. In 1912 the Massachusetts Agricultural College and the University of Pennsylvania chapters were founded. This latter chapter perfected the ritual of the fraternity and sponsored a deliberate program of national expansion. Since its comparatively recent founding, Lambda Chi Alpha has established eighty-four chapters in the United States and Canada.

Xi Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha was chartered at DePauw University in 1915. The nucleus for the chapter was a local organization known as the Darsee Club. Injured by one hundred per cent enlistment in the World War, Xi Zeta chapter has nevertheless held its place on the DePauw campus ever since its founding.

Xi Zeta chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Charles Jordan, president; Augustus Villapiano, vice-president; Norman Grieser, secretary; and Charles Goodrich, treasurer.

alpha tau omega

Alpha chapter of Alpha Tau Omega was established at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Virginia, in 1865. It was organized as an attempt to raise the morale of the college youth of the South. The unifying spirit of friendliness in the fraternity did much to encourage and revive the broken, beaten southern collegians. Since the time of its founding, Alpha Tau Omega has expanded to include ninety-four chapters, located in forty-four of the forty-eight United States.

Delta Rho chapter of Alpha Tau Omega was organized in 1924. The chapter grew out of Delta Sigma Psi, a local fraternity. In the thirteen years since it was chartered, Delta Rho chapter has consistently reflected the spirit of comradeship and good fellowship to which the founders pledged themselves.

Delta Rho chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Lucas Fischer, president; George Kaler, vice-president; Arden Andreae, treasurer; Richard Lumby, secretary.

The American Commons Club was organized at Denison University in 1921 as a protest against the undemocratic Greek letter fraternity. The aim of the Club has always been the furthering of the true spirit of democracy on college campuses. Equal opportunity for all individuals and all races is its ideal. There are now nine collegiate chapters of the Americans Commons Club. The policies of these chapters have been of great benefit to all fraternities and have encouraged more democratic relationships everywhere that ACC is located.

Mrs. Stevens

The DePauw chapter of the American Commons Club was granted its charter in 1923. For nearly fourteen years this chapter has embodied the beliefs and aspirations of its national founders.

men's hall

Eighteen years ago Men's Hall Association was just an idea in the minds of the men living in Florence Hall. For some time they had felt the need of an organization to improve their dormitory life—one which would qualify them for participation in group activities. After a four year period of experimentation, all the social, political, and scholastic ideals which had been in the minds of their founders since the school year 1918-1919 were embodied in a constitution. In the next six years M.H.A. men participated prominently in campus activities. The addition of Longden Hall in 1928 enlarged the dormitory quarters and provided a social center for M.H.A. Finally, in 1929, the Men's Hall Association was incorporated under a state charter.

The M.H.A. officers for the year 1936-37 were Herbert Parman, president; Loyd Easton, vice-president; Louis Levin, treasurer; and H. Winslow Afflerbaugh, secretary.

kappa alpha theta

When DePauw was still Asbury College and when there were only four women in school, Kappa Alpha Theta was founded. These four needed organization to make their position on the campus more interesting and secure. Drawing inspiration from the men's fraternities about them instead of from women's clubs, they founded the first Greek letter fraternity for women on January 27, 1870. Mrs. Betty Locke Hamilton, one of the four, is still residing in Greencastle.

Mrs. Ross

The second chapter was established several years later at Indiana University. Butler University had the third, and soon afterward the organization spread over the mid-west. Today there are sixty-four chapters in the United States and Canada. Kappa Alpha Theta has grown with the rise of women's education.

Alpha chapter officers for 1936-37 were Lucy Ann Balch, president; Marjorie Swenson, vice-president; Mary Florence Davis, secretary; and Miriam Waldo, treasurer.

kappa kappa gamma

At Monmouth College in Illinois three girls organized the Alpha chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma. However, there was a great deal of opposition to women's Greek letter organizations and from the date of founding, March, 1870, until October 13, 1870, the sorority was compelled to exist secretly. The opposition continued, and for a period the Alpha chapter was forced into inactivity. This necessitated a change in the supreme rule of the fraternity, and various sister chapters became for a while the Grand Chapter in place of Alpha. Later Kappa Kappa Gamma became a pioneer in the Grand Council form of fraternity government.

Mrs. Graham

Five years after the founding of the fraternity, Iota chapter was established at DePauw. It was, in 1875, the second sorority on the campus. Since then it has grown into one of the largest and most active organizations at DePauw.

Iota chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Betty Maxwell, president; Mary Longpre, vice-president; Betty Smith, treasurer; and Jane Zeller, secretary.

alpha chi omega

Alpha Chi Omega fraternity was founded at DePauw University in 1885. Seven girls enrolled in the newly-endowed music school, aided by the Dean, James Hamilton Howe, formed the nucleus of the sixth national women's fraternity, the third to have a chapter on the DePauw campus. Although organized by music students, the fraternity was never professional but always social, drawing most of its membership from the liberal arts school. There are now fifty-nine chapters of Alpha Chi Omega located in the United States.

Mrs. Loop

The four founders of Alpha Chi Omega who are still alive chuckle when they recall the amazement of the entire student body on that fifteenth of October in 1885 when they marched into chapel wearing long wide streamers of scarlet and green, held in place by huge scarlet and green rosettes.

Alpha chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Gwendolen Cole, president; Virginia Frederick, vice-president; Charlotte Gray, secretary; and Natalie Johnson, treasurer.

Alpha Phi was founded at Syracuse University in 1872. Fourteen years later, the young women built a chapter house, the first to be built and occupied by the members of a women's fraternity. One of Alpha Phi's ideals is the inculcation of loyalty in its members, illustrated in the open motto, "Union hand in hand."

Since its founding, Alpha Phi has maintained a conservative policy of expansion. Of her thirty-six collegiate chapters, not one has ever become inactive.

Mrs. Johnson

Gamma chapter of Alpha Phi, located at DePauw, celebrates its fiftieth anniversary this year. It was in 1887 that six members of a local sorority were granted their charter by the national fraternity. They began the only chapter of Alpha Phi which has ever been established in Indiana.

Gamma chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Marjorie Peet, president; Dale Baldridge, vice-president; Kathlyn Holway, treasurer; and Marjorie Wilson, secretary.

alpha omicron pi

Alpha Omicron Pi was organized at Barnard College in New York in 1897, the only national fraternity founded at that school. Since Christmas holidays make it impossible to commemorate the actual organization date of January 2, members of the forty-six chapters in the United States and Canada celebrate on December 8, the birthday of one of the founders. The National Panhellenic Congress admitted Alpha Omicron Pi in 1905.

Mrs. Davis

Theta chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi was established on the DePauw campus in 1907. Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, then president, suggested to a local sorority of twenty-one girls that they affiliate nationally with Alpha Omicron Pi. This "Just for Fun" club, which had begun as a sorority in Greencastle High School, became the fifth women's organization at DePauw.

delta delta delta

At Boston University on Thanksgiving Eve in 1888, Delta Delta Delta was founded by Sarah Ida Shaw and Eleanor Dorcas Pond with the assistance of their friends and classmates. The complete Alpha chapter of eighteen members was assembled, initiated, and organized on January 15, 1889. The establishment of the second chapter in Iowa showed that Tri-Delt was not to be a sectional fraternity. In the forty-nine years since then, Delta Delta Delta has established eighty-four chapters in the United States and three in Canada.

The local chapter, Delta Alpha, was installed at DePauw University on June 10, 1908. A group of nine had first formed in 1903, calling themselves the P.X.Y.Q. club. At the suggestion of one of the founders of Delta Delta Delta, an application was made to that sorority for a charter, which was granted. In 1926 the present house was built at the corner of Bloomington and Anderson streets.

Six of the first women admitted to Miami University established Delta Zeta in 1902. Today the sisterhood is active in fifty-nine chapter houses. The chief outside interest of Delta Zeta is Vest, a settlement project in the Kentucky mountain country, entirely managed and supported by the members of the fraternity. This project includes a community center, a school, a clinic, and a dormitory. It provides both children and adults with educational opportunities and entertainment.

Mrs. DeLong

The Delta chapter of Delta Zeta was established at DePauw in 1909, and moved in 1931 from its original home to the new chapter house, the old Ridpath home. As a post-depression measure the fraternity established an employment bureau for the service of members, with headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Delta Chapter officers for 1936-37 were Beryl Zimmerman, president; Veragrace Wass, vice-president; Mary Irene Srill, secretary; and Eleanor Hostetter, treasurer.

alpha gamma delta

At Syracuse University, New York, Alpha Gamma Delta was formally organized on May 30, 1904, by eleven women students. Four years later the DePauw chapter was installed, June 6, 1908. Eta chapter built its present residence on sorority row in 1927.

Mrs. Green

Alpha Gamma Delta has taken a great interest in social work of all types, but its particular interest is the maintenance of two summer camps for under-privileged children. A camp has been in existence in Jackson, Michigan, since 1920; and in 1932 the sorority established another in Ontario, Canada. Eta chapter sends representatives to help run the camp each summer.

Eta chapter officers for the year 1936-37 were Lois Walts, president; Helen Phillips, vice-president; Mary Fry, treasurer; and Louise Krueger, secretary.

rector halls

Before the bequests of Mr. Edward Rector, DePauw's only dormitory for women was Mansfield Hall, which went up in flames in 1931. Of the two halls now on the campus, Rector was the first to be given and the first ground was broken in 1916. This residence was dedicated to the memory of Mr. Rector's father, Isaac Rector, who was "an earnest believer in equal rights and opportunities for women". Miss Helen C. Salzer, the present Dean of Women, acts as chaperon for Rector Hall.

Eleven years later Lucy Rowland Hall was presented to the university through the will of Mr. Rector and named for his wife. Miss Mildred Dimmick is the Lucy Rowland chaperon. Johnson House is also maintained as a women's residence by the University under the chaperonage of Miss Carmen Siewert.

Rector officers for the year 1936-37 were Betty Eldred, president; Frances Noland, vice-president; and Ruth Grummon, treasurer.

Lucy Rowland officers for the year 1936-37 were Alberta Schmid, president; Eloise Gharst, vice-president; and Ruth Horine, treasurer.

Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising honorary, was founded at the University of Missouri in 1913. The DePauw chapter was organized in 1930 and named, after the custom of the fraternity, for Walter B. Cole, a prominent advertiser. Each of the twenty chapters is affiliated with the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. The fraternity publishes a magazine, the Alpha Delta Sigma Quarterly. With the ultimate purpose of raising the standards of advertising, the fraternity pledges sophomores and juniors from the advertising staffs of the various publications. These men are distinguished during initiation week by the sandwich signs they must wear. Besides the regular weekly meetings the fraternity holds a formal dance and several dinners a year. Professor Paul J. Fay is the faculty adviser. The present officers are Alwin Cramer, president, and Robert Dewar, secretary-treasurer.

Founded at the University of Illinois in 1924, Alpha Lambda Delta proposes to encourage and reward high scholarship among freshman women. The DePauw chapter, organized in 1927, was the third extension of the new honorary. Freshman women in either the School of Music or the College of Liberal Arts maintaining a half A-half B average either the first semester or the whole of their freshman year are eligible for membership. The club's activities are varied. It helps the Association of Women Students in the teas given during orientation week; it sends delegates to annual Student Activity Conferences; and it co-operated with Phi Eta Sigma in entertaining high school students trying for president's scholarships. The officers this year were Mildred Gadient, president; Jean Woods, vice-president; June Winter, secretary; Anne Wilkin, treasurer; and Dean Helen C. Salzer, faculty adviser.

Alpha Phi Omega, since its founding at Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania, in 1925, has grown to include forty-nine chapters. Alpha Upsilon of DePauw was installed last year in Indianapolis on March 22. Membership is limited to men affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America and willing to aid the organization's four-fold program of service. Plans for this year include a leadership conference for Wabash Valley area scout troops. The regular activities of the organization are in the nature of civic service. When necessary, local troops are supplied with merit badge examiners, advisers, and leaders. The fraternity handles the registration of fathers and grads on Fathers' Day and Old Gold Day, and provides ushers for such events as the DePauw Flying Club's air show. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Allan Anderson, president; Richard C. Kiger, vice-president; Willard C. Lacy, treasurer; and Robert Anderson, secretary.

The Artus Club at DePauw is the local chapter of Omicron Delta Gamma, and was founded in 1927. Its underlying purpose is to promote an active interest among students and faculty members in present-day economics, to provide information and opportunity for the discussion of various problems not covered in regular classroom routine, and to further co-operation and understanding between the economics department and the student body. Any man with an average of B or above in both the economics department and the university, who has taken sixteen hours or more in the economics department, automatically becomes a member. Every two weeks on Thursday evening, meetings are held in the houses of members. The faculty members of the Artus Club are Professor Hiram Jome, Professor A. A. Smith, and Professor Frederick W. Ritchie. Officers for the year 1936-37 were John Hillis, president; Herbert Parman, secretary; and Wendell Lanning, treasurer.

Members of Blue Key are "tapped" in senior chapel each spring as men who have maintained a high degree of excellence in scholarship, activities, leadership, and service to the university. The organization endeavors to bring about a closer and more co-operative relationship between faculty and students. The five faculty members and ten senior men exchange ideas on the current problems of the school. Yellow canes have long been the insignia of the organization and are displayed most frequently on Sunday afternoons and at football games. The program of the organization is not definite, but is more a matter of spreading goodwill, such as in the sponsorship of the Old Gold Day "mixer" with Mortar Board. As a national honorary Blue Key is comparatively young. It was established at the University of Florida in 1925, and the DePauw chapter was organized in 1927. Faculty members are Professors Messersmith, Zink, Carson, Pence, and Dean Dirks. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Robert Fisher, president, and Paul Freeland, secretary-treasurer.

Delta Sigma Rho, the honorary oratorical society, was founded in Chicago thirty-one years ago in April, 1906, by delegates from seven large universities, who endeavored to unite their various local societies into one strong national group. In 1915 the forty-fifth chapter of Delta Sigma Rho was organized at DePauw University. The membership is limited to regularly enrolled students of the university who have served two years with the varsity debate team. The final selection from those who meet this initial qualification is made by the faculty members of the chapter. The main purpose of the organization is to encourage public speaking and to develop high standards of oratory by making selections for membership with the utmost discrimination. To unite the various chapters and to advance new ideas, the "Gavel", the official publication, is issued quarterly to members. Faculty members of Delta Sigma Rho are Professors Robert E. Williams and Herold T. Ross.

Pre-medical students under the adviserships of Dean Blanchard organized Delta Omicron Chi in 1934. Because the honorary fills a peculiar need at DePauw, no special attention has been given to its extension in other schools. Here it is symbolized by the green hat with the death's head and the coffin parade of the pledges. DOX offers a fraternal bond among those students interested in medicine, promoting and upholding the ideals of the profession, and according recognition of academic and scholastic standing on the campus. Faculty addresses, medical reports, discussion of co-operative and socialized medicine make up the Sunday evening programs. Off campus Delta Omicron Chi visits clinics, witnesses operations, and recently made trips to the Eli Lilly Company and the Indiana Medical School Hospital. Pledging is restricted to sophomore and junior men and takes place in the fall of each year. Faculty members are Doctors W. M. Blanchard, J. M. Fulmer, G. W. Giddings, and Professor A. E. Reynolds; officers were Ed Morgan, president; M. J. Moore, vice-president; and Robert Koss, secretary-treasurer.

In 1912 Duzer Du was organized by two Northwestern University students and Professors H. B. Gough and R. B. Thomas as a solution to the long-felt need for a fraternity to promote the interest of the DePauw students in dramatics and to develop the study and practice of the art of producing plays. This organization has been able to finance all of its plays and buy most of the modern equipment of the Little Theater from its own funds. It is not a departmental organization, but a university honorary. Competitive tryouts for pledging are held twice a year. The survivors of the first competition are initiated if they also pass the second try. Advisers of the fraternity are Professor Robert E. Williams and Miss Lucile Calvert. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Kermit Arnold, president; Ruth Moritz, vice-president; Emily Ivey, secretary; Betty Acuff, treasurer; and James Carney, business manager.

Mortar Board is the highest honor which a senior woman can receive at DePauw. The organization was founded at Syracuse University in 1918, and the DePauw chapter was established the following year. The name was taken from the senior honorary society of Ohio State University. Formal pledging is held at the May Day breakfast after the active members and the faculty advisers have chosen the girls on the basis of scholarship, leadership, service, and personality. The insignia of the organization is a black mortarboard with a gold edge, worn as a pin or on the back of brown suede jackets. The yearly program of Mortar Board includes bi-monthly meetings to discuss some of the problems of university life; an Old Gold Day "mixer" in conjunction with Blue Key; a balloon-selling project at the Old Gold Day game; and a scholarship banquet in the spring for all women on the campus making forty points or more during the first semester of the year. Officers for the year 1936-37 were Mary Ellen Voyles, president; Lucy Ann Balch, vice-president; and Pauline Megenity, secretary.

Mu Phi Epsilon is a national music honorary for women, which was founded in 1903 at the Metropolitan College of Music, Cincinnati, Ohio. Zeta chapter, founded at DePauw in 1905, works with the national organization to promote scholarship and friendship among music school students. All junior and senior students who are in the upper quarter of their class in Music School are eligible for membership. The organization sponsors the intersorority sing and plans teas for the entertainment of Music School students and faculty. Its Christmas serenade of familiar carols has become a DePauw tradition. Last year Mu Phi Epsilon sent two delegates to the national convention at Mills College, Oakland, California. Regular meetings are held twice each month, under the leadership this year of the following officers: Marjorie Goodwin, president; Helen Nimtz, vice-president; Sadie Moor, recording secretary; and Allison Antrobus, treasurer.

Phi Beta Kappa was established December 5, 1776, at the College of William and Mary as a social fraternity, but has since become the outstanding scholastic honorary of all Liberal Arts colleges. There are now one hundred and twenty-two chapters in the United States. The DePauw chapter, founded in 1889; is Indiana Alpha of Phi Beta Kappa. Approximately seven hundred members have been initiated here. The officers of the present chapter are Dr. Winona Welch, president; Dr. Herrick E. H. Greenleaf, vice-president; and Dr. Coen G. Pierson, secretary. The members elected this year were Lucy Ann Balch, Jane Davis, Loyd Easton, Robert Highberger, John Hillis, Louis Levin, Bert Kriete, David Nicodemus, Frances Noland, Louise Pile, Daniel Resneck, Gordon Schoepfle, Robert Snyder, Marjorie Swenson, Charles Turner, Mary Ellen Voyles, and Lenore Williams.

Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary for men, was established in 1923 at the University of Illinois. The chapter at DePauw was granted its charter on April 19, 1929. At the end of each semester, freshmen with a half A-half B average are admitted to membership in Phi Eta Sigma. During orientation week the honorary gives a party for all freshman men. In November it holds a stag party for those who have at least a B average. In the spring the members act as hosts to the high school seniors trying out for scholarships. Wendell Martin was chosen this year to be DePauw's delegate to the national convention of Phi Eta Sigma at the University of Alabama, March 26 and 27. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Wendell Martin, president; Joe Barr, vice-president; John Garrabrandt, secretary; Jack Dwyer, treasurer; and Robert Leslie, historian.

Phi Mu Alpha, national musical honorary for men, was founded in 1898 at the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston to further the composition and performance of American music. Lambda chapter was established at DePauw in 1911. Membership is usually limited to upperclassmen, and is on the basis of musical ability and scholarship. Phi Mu Alpha sponsors two recitals or concerts each year. This year it presented a musical program in conjunction with Mu Phi Epsilon. It was responsible for the excellent Amherst Glee Club concert last year, and plans a return engagement of the eastern group of men singers. The SONGS OF DEPAUW was edited and published last year by the organization with the assistance of its faculty members, who are Dean McCutchan and Professors Thompson, Gale, Greenleaf, Bartlett, Berg, Shadbolt, and Jarratt. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Leslie Gilkey, president; Myron Bleam, vice-president; Theodore Marvin, secretary; and Eugene Pennington, treasurer.

Phi Sigma Iota was founded to reward and encourage superior scholarship in the field of the Romance languages and literature at Allegheny College in 1922. It now has more than twenty-five chapters. Active membership in confined to teachers and advanced students in French, Spanish, and Italian; and student members are pledged upon the recommendation of the faculty of the Romance language department. Scholarly meetings are held for the reading of papers on the life or literature of countries where the Romance languages are spoken. Each chapter holds a yearly essay contest for the best paper of this type. The winning essay from each chapter is published in the Phi Sigma Iota NEWS LETTER, its official publication. The faculty members of the DePauw chapter of Phi Sigma Iota are Professors Percy G. Evans, Mildred Dimmick, and Laurel H. Turk. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Edith Langtry, president; Dorothy Haas, vice-president; Charlotte Donnohue, secretary; and Laurel H. Turk, treasurer.

Pi Kappa Lambda is to music schools what Phi Beta Kappa is to Liberal Arts colleges. Despite the fact that the need for such an organization had long been felt, the national fraternity was not founded until 1918 at Northwestern University. The DePauw chapter was established April 30, 1936. A key similar to that of Phi Beta Kappa distinguishes the members. Musical achievement and high scholarship are the requirements for selection to membership, which occurs during the second semester of the senior year. Although the local chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda held no meetings this year, it did make plans for a scholarship fund. The officers for the DePauw chapter during the year 1936-37 were Professor Van Denman Thompson, vice-president and acting president; Miss Leah Curnutt, secretary; and Miss Edna T. Bowles, treasurer.

Pi Epsilon Delta, National Collegiate Players, was founded at the University of Illinois in 1919, and in 1923 the DePauw chapter was established by the Little Theater group. The outstanding honorary of the speech department, Pi Epsilon Delta chooses its members on the basis of distinguished ability in dramatic work. Any phase of dramatic work may contribute points toward the final selection—leads, supporting parts, direction, and production work. Those who are eligible for membership are recommended to the national organization by the professors of the speech department. Seniors initiated last spring were Martha Landgrebe, John Lucas, Dorothy Wright, and Esther Jones. Professors Herold T. Ross, Robert L. Williams, and Miss Lucile Calvert of the faculty are members. Pi Epsilon Delta has no regular meetings but keeps abreast of dramatic innovations through the magazine of the fraternity, THE PLAYERS, which is published every two months during the year.

The Phi chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha was established at DePauw University in 1932 through the efforts of Professor H. W. Voltmer. It is a national political science honorary intended to extend the activities of students beyond theoretical school work into actual political participation. In order to be eligible for membership the student must be a major in political science and maintain a B average in that department with at least a C average in all other courses. New members are chosen each year by the senior members of the honorary. The organization holds monthly meetings at which political papers are read and discussed. The following members of the faculty are affiliated with Pi Sigma Alpha: Professors Harry W. Voltmer, Hiram M. Stout, and William W. Carson. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Robert Fisher, president; Joe Cummins, vice-president; and Paul Freeland, treasurer.

Sigma Delta Chi, the first national journalistic honorary, was founded at DePauw in 1909 to improve the journalistic efficiency of college newspapers and to prepare its members for journalistic work after graduation. Only upper-classmen who intend to be newspaper men and who have been outstanding in campus publications are eligible for pledging. Although known primarily for eccentric dances like the Satchmo Swing, and for the traditional razz banquet, Sigma Delta Chi carries on its most important activities at its Wednesday night meetings and discussions. Prominent newspaper men attend to instruct and advise the members. John Hillis represented the DePauw chapter this year at the national convention at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas. The officers for the year 1936-37 were John Hillis, president; Owen Davison, vice-president; and Randall Booty, treasurer.

A national journalistic honorary for women, Theta Sigma Phi, was founded at the University of Washington in 1909. Only students who have distinguished themselves in the field of journalism are eligible for membership. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Dorothy Thompson, Caroline Miller, and Harriet Munroe are a few of the well-known writers who have been members of this society. The DePauw chapter was origanized in 1919 and provides an incentive for the participation of women in journalism. The main projects of Theta Sigma Phi are the two papers which it publishes each year on Old Gold Day and May Day. It also sponsors the Matrix Table, a formal banquet given each spring for outstanding women on the campus. Last year Harriet Goodwin Deuss, a foreign correspondent, was the Theta Sigma Phi guest speaker. Officers for the year 1936-37 were Rosemary Walker, president; Marjorie Swenson, vice-president; Marguerite Daniels, secretary; and Lucy Ann Balch, treasurer.

A group of DePauw students founded an organization for creative writers in 1908, naming it in honor of Robert Louis Stevenson, who was called Tusitala, "the teller of tales", by the Samoan natives. It is not a departmental club; the members are chosen from those students who are invited each year to submit two manuscripts of different types of writing. The best manuscripts are selected and their authors are pledged to Tusitala. Meetings of the club are held every other Tuesday for the purpose of reading manuscripts and receiving criticism. The organization has neither officers nor sponsors. However, until the time of his leave of absence this year, Professor Lloyd B. Gale had aided and advised the writers. Many of the members of Tusitala are active contributors to campus publications. The work of Richard Overman, Trudie McCullough, Elizabeth Yount, James Gregory, and Rolla McDonald frequently appears in the DEPAUW MAGAZINE. Many of the members hold positions on the DEPAUW and THE MIRAGE.

Responsibility for student publications rests with the Board of Control, which regulates the financial and administrative affairs of both THE MIRAGE and the DEPAUW. Literary criticism is also among the functions of the board: Miss Mills serves as adviser for the Mirage write-ups, while Mr. Alexander superintends the journalistic style of the newspaper. Last year the Board undertook a more ambitious project in the construction of the Publications Building, which is being financed entirely by the two publications under the direction of the Board. The members of this body are elected by the Student Executive Board and include both students and faculty members. The officers for the year 1936-37 were President Clyde E. Wildman, chairman; Professor H. M. Stout, vice-chairman; Professor W. C. Arnold, treasurer; and Miss Ermina Mills, secretary.

The Centennial MIRAGE is a completely renovated publication. It has endeavored, as its main purpose, to capture the essence of DePauw in three hundred pages of photography. To attain this goal the photographer has followed the DePauw student into all his activities from the lecture hall to the graduation of the senior. Pictures were taken while the subjects were not aware that they were being observed. Underlying it all is the natural beauty of the DePauw campus and the century of tradition which enriches the school. The past of DePauw has been remembered. A brief history of the school, a section of old snapshots, and a section of honor for the men of the faculty who will always live in the memory of their students are some of the features in which a bit of the old DePauw is recaptured. But with all the emphasis on the past and the present of the university, the editors feel that it is only proper to say that THE MIRAGE of 1937 and the entire Centennial celebration look into the future with much hope as the past is reviewed with pride.

The DEPAUW MAGAZINE, a literary periodical of the English department, was started in 1919 by students seeking a medium of publication for creative expression. It is now issued quarterly, in November, January, March, and May, by editorial and business staffs who work without remuneration. Professor R. W. Pence officiates as general manager of the publication and adviser of both staffs. The present staffs are supervised by a board of editors headed by Donald Freehafer as editor-in-chief and Jeanette Rugen as art editor. Members of the board are Mary Irene Srill, Virginia Cline, Rosalind Barrows, Rolla McDonald, Josephine Maple, Mary Ellen Voyles, and Elizabeth Yount. The business staff is headed by Laurie MacCuaig, business manager; Richard Cline, advertising manager; and John DeWolfe, circulation manager.

There has been a special trend in the editorial policy this year towards a lighter tone. Manuscripts, which may be submitted by anyone on the campus, have been more often satirical, humorous, and farcical than in previous years. Each number usually contains an article by a faculty member, as well as feature stories, book reviews, and poetry. The publication ranks as one of the important contributions of the English department to DePauw journalism.

The campus news organ has had a rather complicated evolution. The first publication was the BEMA, a four-page weekly, in 1891. The following year it became the bi-weekly ERA, but in 1894 it became a two-page weekly, called the DEPAUW. 1897 saw another increase to four pages in the DEPAUW PALLADIUM, and in 1904 ambitious editors published a sixteen page DEPAUW WEEKLY. Two years later the DEPAUW DAILY of two pages took its place and was published in this form until 1921. In this year the paper in its present form appeared and was published on Tuesday and Friday until 1924 when it began to appear three times a week.

A successful new policy has been engineered this year which places emphasis on individual feature columns on catholic subjects from the discursive "Dogwatch", which takes all knowledge as its province, to the more specialized scandal of "Hot Lipth", and various sports commentaries. The editors have successfully pursued two campaigns during the past school year, one resulting in the Thanksgiving recess and the other raising a fund for charity at Christmas time.

spring and fall

Last May Muff Strickler was crowned Queen of May before the mothers . . . and in the fall Old Gold Day was successfully marked by balloons released on Manchester's downfall of 13-7 . . . while ATO took the KTK cup for their barn yard decorations.

the playbill

The terrified airdrome employees watch the mad flyer from the west cavort in the air before he lands. "Ceiling Zero" sustained a tension like this throughout the performance of the colorful modern melodrama of the airlanes and the fear which grips those who only wait below.

Between Dascomb Dinsmore or Dinsmore Dascomb or whatever his name was and the two intrepid flyers, Miss Campion and Sir James Fenton, the three acts of "Petticoat Fever" make one swirl of delightful madness as the guy who had not seen a beautiful woman for two years goes haywire when this girl drops from nowhere into his lonely wireless station.

The Little Theater gave the Centennial year an entertaining eventful dramatic season. Successes from the motion pictures and contemporary Broadway productions were presented at DePauw.

SQUARE CROOKS, a comedy mystery by James P. Judge, was sponsored by the Student Executive Board in connection with the observance of Old Gold Day on the week end of October 24th. The young hero of the play, who innocently contracted so many worrisome situations, was played by William Mereness, and his wise cracking wife was Marjorie Peet. Gun fights, missing pearls, and witty lines provided two nights of amusement for Old Gold Day visitors.

CEILING ZERO was the first Duzer Du presentation, November 20th and 21st. Frank Wead's movie melodrama, packed with plane crashes, tense dramatic scenes, and fast love making, gave two Little Theater audiences plenty of thrills. George Losey was the stern, yet kind hearted airways superintendent, and Kermit Arnold played the carefree wild Dizzy Davis. A supporting cast of twenty did well to make CEILING ZERO a popular campus hit. Lucile Calvert, the director, had a real job in correlating the swift dramatic scenes with unusual sound and lighting effects.

AROUND THE CORNER by Martin Flavin was a current success both on Broadway and at DePauw. Duzer Du players, under the direction of Professor Williams, interpreted well the melodramatic comedy about the lean depression years. Jack Grady was Fred Perkins, father of the depressed family. The mother was Veragrace Wass, and the daughter was Mary Hall. Their troubles brought similar reminiscences to each member of the audience who had felt the trials of the depression.

PETTICOAT FEVER, a non-tropical farce by Mark Reed, was the last Duzer Du play and was given April 9th and 10th at the Little Theater, followed by a week's engagement in Indianapolis. Three acts filled with crazy situations and clever lines proved to be a real hit. Jack Grady was the love-starved wireless agent who had the fever, and his unsuspecting guests were Marjorie Swenson and George Losey. This sophisticated comedy well rounded out the dramatic season at DePauw's Little Theater.

Men's Debate at DePauw was organized more than a half-century ago and has gained prestige from the participation of such men as Albert J. Beveridge, Charles Coffin, and Samuel Prengle. The team very early debated against the Earlham College team, and within a few years began to meet squads from Wabash and Butler and later became a charter member of the Indiana Debate League. Since he took charge ten years ago, Professor Herold T. Ross has expanded the activities of the debating squads greatly. Under his direction foreign teams from England, Ireland, and Germany have been brought to the campus; and this year the team expects to meet a New Zealand team. The 1936-37 schedule has also included meets with Wabash, Earlham, Rose Polytechnic, Indiana State Teachers' College, Bucknell University, and Indiana Law school. In recognition of their efforts, the members of the teams are awarded bronze, silver, and gold keys at the annual forensic banquet.

The women's varsity debate squad was organized in 1927 by the students and faculty of the speech department in an effort to train women for effective public speaking. Any sophomore, junior, or senior woman may attend the weekly debate seminars and try out for the team before a committee of judges from the speech department faculty. This year the team selected met other secondary Indiana colleges on the question, "Resolved: that there should be uniform marriage and divorce laws." Both the negative and affirmative teams gained decisions over Earlham's women debate squads. Debates are also scheduled with Alabama and Bucknell Universities. Bronze, silver, and gold keys are awarded for successive years of activity. Membership in the debate honorary, Delta Sigma Rho, is a possibility after two years on the squad. The squad this year, under the tutelage of Professor Herold T. Ross, was Evelyn Schwartz, Mary Ellen Voyles, Dorothy Cleare, June Konecy, Catherine Short, and Irene Boyd.

Organized freshman debate was introduced on the DePauw campus by Professor Herold T. Ross when he became a member of the faculty ten years ago. His purpose was to provide training and experience for prospective members of the varsity team, and to make it possible for any person in the freshman class to try out for membership.

This year the freshman debate squad met other college teams and outstanding high school teams on the question of government ownership of electric utilities. However, most of the competition has been in debates between the members themselves. The interest and perseverance of the new debaters is aroused by the system of grading them according to merit points, the freshman debate trophy being awarded at the forensic banquet to the member having the highest score.

marching band

The marching band was organized by a group of ten students and is almost as old as Asbury College itself. In 1910 it became an athletic pep organization as well as a band, and a few years later was absorbed as a military band in the R.O.T.C. When the R.O.T.C. was abolished, the band resumed its former status. Each year forty-eight members are selected by try-outs. Besides playing for athletic contests, the band sponsors a dance every year and plays at the Indianapolis speedway for the famous five-hundred mile race. Members are awarded numerals the first year, letters the second, and senior members are given keys. Both the band and the orchestra combine to make the concert band which gives two concerts a year, one in Meharry Hall, and one outdoors.

The symphony orchestra is twenty-six years old; and while it is not so old as the band in point of time, it is an able group of sixty-five musicians under the direction of Bjornar Bergethon. Three times a year it gives formal concerts of symphonic and semi-classical music, often featuring soloists from the faculty of the music school. Its three yearly chapels are enthusiastically attended by the faculty and the student body and are considered among the outstanding events of the chapel program for the year. This is a voluntary extra-curricular activity. Throughout the year the underlying purpose of the program carried on in the bi-weekly practices is the cultivation of an appreciation of the best orchestral compositions.

A great amount of the well deserved fame of DePauw's music school is due to the capable performance of the Old Gold choral group, the university choir, which is directed by Dean Robert G. McCutchan of the School of Music. Primarily the choir sponsors and fosters an interest in sacred music, but its repertoire is by no means confined to this type of music. Membership is limited and admission is gained only after tryouts before Dean McCutchan. It is a travelling organization and has gained an excellent reputation on its yearly tours through Indiana and various large cities of the middle west. This year among other concerts the choral group sang before the Chicago Musical Club, and also over a broadcast from WGN in Chicago. The members practice every Tuesday and Thursday nights and sing each Wednesday at religious chapel. Its great project this year was the presentation of ELIJAH, Mendelsshon's great oratorio with orchestral accompaniment. The organization was swelled for this occasion by the invitation extended to alumni to join the group for this part in the celebration of the centennial.

"On shaded walks beneath soaring elms
Where vain desires are lost
And nothing is but peace and dreams
And laughing voices—
And by moonlight a whisper and a smile.
Life is good, and we Are gay today—for we are youth."

Despite the fact that the college week is a week of fun, one can see that study plays a large part in the day of a DePauw co-ed or man. The two girls in Lucy are dividing their attention between the history and Kay Kyser, while the Longden men are all for the ball game. Anderson was only pretending to study. Mal and Lee don't even pretend, but tails portend a festive night. And while we're off the subject there are some good magazines in the English library —and some good girls in the Rendezvous.

organizations and

campus clubs

It is an amazing thing—popularity. In the first place it is intangible, and yet when you analyze it it becomes a quality of manifold character. However, this is not the time nor place to explain the mystery, but to proclaim Betty Maxwell, who is KKT' prexy, as the most popular senior girl. Both the guys and the gals agree. And you all know how hard it is find one girl popular with both.

american guild of organists

The American Guild of Organists, a national organization founded in 1896, established a branch of the Indiana chapter at DePauw in 1925. The aims of the organization are three: to advance the cause of good organ and church music, to raise the efficiency of organists by means of examinations, and to discuss professional topics. At the monthly meetings there is either an educational discussion or a recital of music. Members of the guild plan to attend several concerts in Indianapolis each year. Several well-known concert organists were brought to the campus this year to be heard by the entire student body. New members are elected to the club by the vote of the present members and the faculty. The requirement is a high scholastic standing in the study of organ. Professor Van Denman Thompson is the faculty adviser, and the officers for the year 1936-37 were Sadie Moor, president; Allison Antrobus, vice-president; Mary Fuller, secretary; and Mildred Wessel, treasurer.

Organized before the war, the German Club disbanded during the World War but was reorganized in 1925 as Der Deutsche Bund, a member of the American Federation of German Clubs. Students recommended by the faculty for outstanding work in the German department are eligible for membership. The organization furthers an active interest in German political life, social customs, and literature. While all business is conducted in German to promote a facile use of the language, the main purpose of the social part of the meetings is to create a genuine interest in the German people. The high point of the year's activities was the German Christmas play, written and directed by Doctor G. Baerg. Among the cast were Lisabeth Engelbrecht and Wolfgang Dieck, German exchange students on the campus this year. The faculty members of Der Deutsche Bund are Doctor G. H. Grueninger, Doctor G. Baerg, and Doctor E. M. Mueller. The officers of the club were Roald Bergethon, president; Charlotte Donnohue, secretary; and Thomas Cochran, treasurer.

The Education Club was first organized on the DePauw campus in 1928 to arouse interest in education and its problems. At its monthly meetings held the third Thursday of each month the members conduct informal discussions. This year the theme of the program has been "Education in Foreign Countries," and all the discussions have been conducted by the club members only. At one of the most interesting meetings of the year a German exchange student spoke on Germany's educational system. At the Christmas meeting carols were sung in many languages by members who are majors in the language departments. The club also held its annual exchange meeting with the Purdue Education Club in March. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Margaret Yoder, president; Sarah Devol, vice-president; and Walter Scott, treasurer. The faculty advisers are Dr. Fowler D. Brooks, Dr. Earl C. Bowman, and Dean Louis H. Dirks.

In 1914 Professor Rufus T. Stephenson established Epsilon Epsilon, which is probably better entitled to a Greek name than any other organization on the campus, as a social and scholarly organization for students of Greek. Epsilon Epsilon holds monthly meetings throughout the school year. To further its intellectual aims, the club brings in outside speakers at these meetings. It also studies readings from well-known Greek writers and discusses different phases of Greek life and culture. Throughout the year several plays are presented by the club members. To fill the club's social needs, the club holds a banquet annually and has a picnic at the last meeting of the year. The officers for the past year were Carleton Hodge, president; Robert Wright, vice-president; and Robert Leslie, secretary-treasurer. The faculty members of Epsilon Epsilon are Professor Rufus T. Stephenson and Miss Dade B. Shearer.

The Home Economics Club, affiliated with both the National and State Home Economics Associations, was founded at DePauw in 1919. Both majors and minors in the department are eligible for membership. The club brings outstanding women in the home economics field to the meetings to explain the various vocational opportunities: interior decorating, dietetics, dress designing, and merchandising, as well as private home economics. As a traditional project each year at Christmas time the club makes and sells fruit cakes to faculty members, students, and townspeople. The proceeds from this annual sale are used to buy furniture and necessities for the Home Management House. This year a radio was installed as a gift of the Home Economics Club. The officers for 1936-37 were Dorothy Brown, president; Marian Albaugh, vice-president; Kathlyn Holway, secretary; and Betty Eldred, treasurer.

The Naiad Club is a swimming organization for the promotion of interest in swimming among women. It was founded at DePauw in 1921 and discontinued in 1929; but under the direction of Miss Catherine Riggs and Miss Rachel Benton, it was reorganized in 1932. Members of Naiad are chosen at competitive tryouts held several times during the year. The requirements are form and speed in swimming and diving. The form strokes are the back stroke and the front crawl, the breast-stroke and the side-stroke; the diving includes surface dives to recover objects and three dives from the spring board. Each member receives a D for her swim suit. The club participates in a national telegraphic intercollegiate meet sponsored by Northwestern, and on May Day gives an exhibition. The Naiad group meets every Monday night in the university pool. Dorothy Haas served as president this year, and Miss Catherine Riggs as faculty adviser for the group.

The Naperian Club was organized in 1925 at the home of Professor Greenleaf to stimulate interest in mathematics and to further an understanding of more complicated mathematical problems. It is named after the Scot who invented logarithms in the seventeenth century. Membership is not restricted to majors and minors, but the individuals who belong to the club must be enrolled in calculus and have a B average in the department. The Naperian Club meets twice each month, occasionally holding open meetings at which programs of general interest are presented. Frequently meetings are spent in solving difficult problems and puzzles or in reading papers on the subjects of high mathematics. The officers of the Naperian Club for the year 1936-37 were Randall Booty, president; David Nicodemus, vice-president; Dorothy Moore, secretary; and Ralph Mann, treasurer.

The Religious Education Club was founded at DePauw in 1925. It endeavors to co-operate with the Y.W.C.A., the Oxford Club, the Presbyterian Student Union, and the Methodist Student Union; and its main purposes are to provide an opportunity for additional study and investigation in the field of religious education, to give guidance and help to leaders in student and young people's religious organizations, to provide a source of personal enrichment, and to consider the implications of the changing social order for the church. The monthly meetings are held in Keystone Chapel of Gobin Memorial Church, and the yearly program always includes many prominent speakers from outside the school. The theme for the first semester was "Christian Personality". Any student majoring or minoring in religious education or taking work in that department is eligible for membership. New members are chosen by the club's active members. With Dr. E. R. Bartlett as adviser, the officers of the club for 1936-37 were Janet Knapp, president; Herbert Otwell, vice-president; Virginia Porter, secretary; and Robert Leslie, treasurer.

The Science Club, one of the larger departmental clubs, was informally organized in the fall of 1928 and formally established on April 11, 1929. The three-fold purpose of this club is to promote an intelligent interest in the natural sciences, to encourage scientific scholarship, and to further a spirit of companionship and co-operation among those especially interested in the natural sciences. Juniors and seniors who are approved science majors are eligible for membership and are nominated by the faculty members and elected by an executive committee. All professors in the science departments are members. The monthly programs are sponsored by the various departments, the members of which give illustrated lectures and read papers. Often the meetings are open to the student body. The internal organization of the club consists of the one office of treasurer, now held by Doctor J. L. Riebsomer, and of the executive committee, composed of the heads of all the member departments.

Sodalitas Latina is the oldest departmental club on the DePauw campus. It was founded here in 1896 to foster, through a social organization, a scholarly interest in the Roman classics and to acquaint students with Roman history, customs, and life. Only majors and minors in the Latin department are admitted to membership in this club. On the last Thursday of every month, a meeting is held for the purpose of encouraging classical interest and cultivating social unity among the students and faculty of the classical department. A paper is usually read which pertains to some field of Roman civilization. The faculty members who act as supervisors and advisers of Sodalitas Latina are Professor Dade B. Shearer and Doctor R. T. Stephenson. For the year 1936-37 the officers were Helen Burress, president; Dema Maddox, vice-president; Irene Boyd, secretary; and Betty Finch, chairman of the program committee.

Toynbee was founded in 1910 on the DePauw campus as a sociology honorary to stimulate interest in the various fields of social work and to encourage sociological research. It has never affiliated with a national organization. Membership is restricted to majors in the department who have maintained a scholastic average of B. Meetings are held on the evenings of the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, and the yearly program is interspersed with periodic visits to different state institutions, the activities of which are pertinent to sociological study. The last meeting of the year is usually a dinner at which some well-known sociologist or social worker speaks. The faculty advisers of Toynbee are Professor F. M. Vreeland, and Professor L. M. Jones. Officers for 1936-37 were Owen Davison, president; Harriett Knapp, vice-president; Jane Shideler, secretary-treasurer; Marguerite Daniels, historian; and Ruth Wade, chairman of the program committee.

W S A

The Women's Sports Association was organized at DePauw in 1915 to co-operate with the women's physical education department for the promotion of higher physical efficiency and a more democratic spirit among the women of the university. Any woman who has participated in one major sport or two minor sports is eligible for membership. WSA sponsors all inter-class, intra-mural, and individual activities in women's sports, awarding cups to intra-mural and individual winners at a banquet each fall. WSA is governed by a board of four officers and eight sport heads; the officers are nominated by the senior members of the board and the faculty adviser, Miss Rachel Benton, and are elected by popular vote of the members; the other board members are selected by the officers. The eight sport heads for 1936-37 were Helen Phillips, Thalia Banning, Marjorie Smith, Phyllis Carleton, Vera Bundy, Ruth Locke, Nancy Gavin, and Betty Smith. The officers were Marguerite Daniels, president; Pauline Megenity, vice-president; Janet Wright, secretary; and Dorothy Bell, treasurer.

The Association of Women Students was organized at DePauw in 1915 to foster closer relations among women on the campus. Each year representatives of the DePauw organizations meet with women from other colleges to exchange ideas. The A.W.S. board, composed of the officers and one member selected from each women's residence, meets twice a month. Among the activities of the organization are the distribution of Thanksgiving baskets to the needy, the Gold Diggers' Ball, the publication of the women's organization booklet, "Around the Boulder", and the Monon Revue, an all student musical comedy. This year Alan Schneider's "Double Trouble" was produced. But the main activity of the club is the Campus Sister movement which cultivates a closer relationship between the freshman women and the upper classmen. A.W.S. also maintains two funds, one for a scholarship for a DePauw woman, and the other for an annual gift to DePauw's sister college at Madras, India. Officers for the year 1936-37 were Lenore Williams, president; Virginia Frederick, vice-president; Mildred Wessel, secretary; Mary Butler, treasurer; and Louise Lindley, campus sister chairman.

Beta Alpha Sigma is an honorary social fraternity for sophomore men. It has as its purpose the stimulation of a unified interest in campus activities among representative students in the under classes. Beta Alpha Sigma meets each Sunday night at fraternity houses of the members, where common college and fraternity problems are discussed and constructive campus activities are developed. The faculty supervisor is Doctor G. H. Grueninger. The fraternity was founded on the DePauw campus on the eighth of April, 1936, by Philip Oxnam, Edward Morgan, John Brandon, Robert Zaring, Willis Blatchley, and Doctor Grueninger. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Edward Morgan, president; John Brandon, vice-president; and Fred Frick, secretary-treasurer.

In 1929 a group of DePauw students from Chicago conceived the idea of organizing a club of all students from Chicago and its vicinity. The suggestion was immediately acted upon, and the Chicago Club emerged as a new organization at DePauw and a fore-runner of the other DePauw city-clubs. The aim of this group is the maintenance and promotion of fellowship among students from the vicinity of Chicago. Each year during the Christmas vacation a dinner dance is given in Chicago under the sponsorship of the club. This year the dance was held at the Blackhawk Restaurant where Red Norvo and his orchestra, featuring Mildred Bailey, were playing. The election of officers is held each fall. The officers for 1936-37 were Esther Jacobs, president, and Walter Dickey, business manager.

After the turn of the century a new enthusiasm for athletics was aroused at DePauw. In 1906 new coaches were hired and athletics were encouraged. Beginning in 1907 athletic participation was stimulated even more by the awarding of "D" sweaters. The "D" Association was formed by the enthusiastic wearers of the "D". However, in 1925, when interest in it seemed to lag, the organization became inactive. Again in 1931 the need for a non-political athletic organization caused a reorganization of the "D" Association with the aim of increasing student interest in athletics and promoting better understanding and co-operation between the student body and athletic departments. Coaches D. C. Moffett and L. L. Messersmith, lettermen of 1922 and 1928 respectively, were chosen as sponsors. The club acts as host to visiting athletes and gives a dance each year. This year the informal "D" dance was on February 27. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Kermit Arnold, president, and Charles Sandberg, secretary-treasurer.

Among the most recent of the city-clubs on the DePauw campus is the Dayton Club, composed of students from Dayton, Ohio. It was organized in October, 1935, with the help of the DePauw alumni of the Dayton area, to bring together those students of DePauw who live in Dayton and its vicinity, and also to further DePauw's interests among prospective students in the Dayton area. It acts as a medium of publicity through the alumni club of the home city and through various projects sponsored by the club. The main activities are the social events during the vacation periods, at which time the club has given dances and banquets for members and for prospective students of DePauw. The officers for the year 1936-37 were Norman Grieser, president, and Keith Max, secretary-treasurer.

The DePauw Flying Club was organized in 1935 by Robert Oxnam to promote interest in aviation and to afford an opportunity for university students to learn to fly. It is affiliated with the National Intercollegiate Flying Club. Every Saturday, weather permitting, the members report to Stark Field, near Greencastle, where instruction is given in a two-place monoplane by transport pilot Clarence Dowdin. In the course of instruction, members of the club have flown over three hundred hours, or thirty thousand miles, without an accident. Five members of the club, Loren McDonald, Donald Wilson, Daniel Ragon, Frank Durham, and Robert McLean, have completed instruction and are flying solo. Several others are nearly ready to make solo flights. Last June the club sponsored an air show at Greencastle, bringing twenty-five army, commercial, and private planes from three states for a program of races and stunts. The officers for this semester are Daniel Ragon, president; Ralph Haas, vice-president; Robert McLean, secretary; and Loren McDonald, treasurer.

The Methodist Student Union was formed on the DePauw campus in 1930 for the purpose of offering opportunity for work to those students interested in Epworth League activities. It is not a closed organization but is open to students of all denominations who wish to attend the meetings. Emphasis is placed on the Sunday evening forum and fellowship hour. The Union exchanges programs with Indiana, Purdue, Terre Haute Teachers' College, and Central Normal School. In February a European movie based on the "Passion Play" of Oberammergau was presented to the entire student body by the Methodist Student Union. Professor Herold T. Ross is the adviser of the organization, and the sponsors are Doctor E. R. Bartlett, Doctor C. D. W. Hildebrand, and Professor Lester M. Jones. The officers of the Union for 1936-37 were Theodore Marvin, president; Betty Campbell, vice-president; and Ruth Jakes, secretary-treasurer.

Founded in 1921 at DePauw University, the Oxford Fellowship is one of twenty chapters in Methodist colleges in the United States. With the purpose of promoting the challenge of the Christian ministry, the fellowship offers membership to all persons interested in church service. Throughout the year prominent guest speakers are invited to instruct the club in the problems of the ministry and Christian service. Its chief activity has been the maintenance of a gospel team of three speakers and a quartet. Headed by Robert Leslie, the team visited neighboring churches to supervise programs of worship. The theme of study this year was "The Minister Building the Kingdom of God". Under the supervision of Dr. C. D. W. Hildebrand the Fellowship has heard such men as the Rev. Wilbur Grose of Indianapolis and Dr. J. E. Porter, Superintendent of the Greencastle district. The officers for the year were Charles Schwartz, president; Herbert Otwell, vice-president; Thomas Hendrix, secretary; and Robert Wright, treasurer.

Stronger bonds between the church and the college are being realized through the medium of the Presbyterian Student Fellowship. Composed of all DePauw students belonging to the Presbyterian Church, the fellowship was first recognized as a campus organization in 1916. By taking part in the church choir, by conducting Sunday School and Youth Day, the organization develops responsibility on the part of its members for the program of Christianity. In addition to church interests the association devotes itself to the discussion of current social and religious problems. Occasionally university and off-campus speakers address the group. This year outstanding programs were presented at Christmas time, and on the evening before the Centennial broadcast when Mr. John Robe spoke. Regular meetings are held each Sunday evening. The Reverend and Mrs. Victor Raphael sponsor the Presbyterian Student Fellowship, whose officers for the year 1936-37 were Richard Lumby, chairman of student activities; Randall Booty, chairman of the program committee; Sadie Moor, chairman of social relations; and Robert Showalter, treasurer.

The Student Board of Deacons was established for DePauw men in 1932 to enable them to lead and co-ordinate the activities of college people in the Greencastle Christian Church. Purdue and Indiana University have similar groups. The members are chosen from the three upper classes on the basis of church activities, leadership in church and school, and scholarship. The Board works in conjunction with the College Women's Church Council in sponsoring the Student Round Table and the original College Forum. These two organizations hold exchange meetings with Purdue and Indiana, the fourth annual PDI convention having been held this spring on the DePauw campus. The local group meets on the first and third Wednesdays of each month under the leadership of the Reverend R. T. Beck. The officers for the year 1936-37 were John Van Horn, president; Jean Stoops, vice-president; and Joe Barr, secretary-treasurer.

The Yankee Club was organized this year to foster friendship among the DePauw students from the New England states and to make suitable arrangements for transportation to the East for vacations.

During the Christmas holidays the club gave a theater party at the Metropolitan Theater in Boston. Here at school the Yankee Club has met several times at the homes of the faculty sponsors, and a steak fry has been planned for sometime in the spring.

The club is made up of forty-six members. Its officers are: president, Edwin Preston; vice-president, Nason Burden; secretary, Emily Ivey; treasurer, Kenneth Lemry; and social chairman, Dorothy Henderson.

The sponsors are Dr. and Mrs. Evans, Dr. and Mrs. Eckardt, Dr. and Mrs. Crandall, Dr. and Mrs. Greenleaf, and Dr. and Mrs. Wildman.

The College Women's Church Council was organized in the spring of 1936 by DePauw students who are members of the Christian Church. The membership includes eight girls chosen on the basis of Christian character, leadership, and intellectual interests. There are also two members who do not attend DePauw but who are of college age and members of the church. The four-fold aim of the council is to form a link between the church and the Christian women on the campus; to stimulate and help students face social, moral, and religious problems; to act as an opinion-forming force on the campus; and to aid the church in all its activities. The meetings are held every two weeks on Tuesday night at the home of the minister of the church. The DePauw Council exchanges vesper programs with Purdue and Indiana organizations. The officers for the past year were Jeane Fillingham, president, and Mary Louise Talbott, vice-president.

The Y.W.C.A. is an organization which takes an active part in the promotion of women's activities on the campus. The various interest groups of the organization, social service, appreciations, and current affairs, have held their meetings this year during the first three weeks of each month, while a general meeting of the entire organization has been held in the fourth week of each month. Meetings are conducted in the Y.W.C.A. room in Speech Hall which was decorated and furnished last year. The first activity of the year was a picnic early in October which was intended as a mixer for new students. The club also gave a Christmas party for the school children of Greencastle, and the annual May Day breakfast in Bowman Gymnasium. On the advisory board which works with the cabinet are Dean Helen C. Salzer, Miss Mildred Dimmick, Miss Dade B. Shearer, Mrs. Hiram Stout, Mrs. Francis Vreeland, Mrs. Gerhardt Baerg, and Miss Ermina Mills. The officers for the year were Marjorie Swenson, president; Frances Noland, vice-president; Mary Lou Billings, secretary; and Irene Boyd, treasurer.

When the Women's Sports Association picked Lloyd Reid as one of three outstanding senior athletes, and when the student body went on record as considering him the most outstanding of the three no one was surprised. Reid is the only senior who has won varsity letters in three of the major sports—basketball, football, track.

Donovan C. Moffett, Head Coach

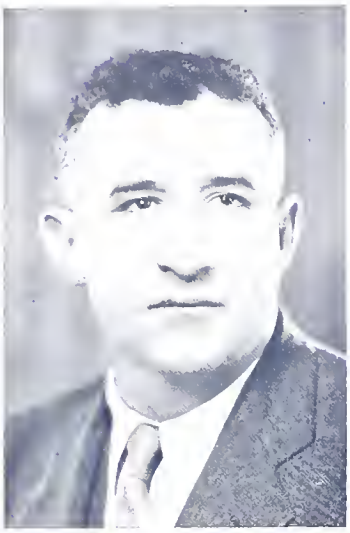
Donovan C. "Tubby" Moffett, '22 tooted a saxophone in the R.O.T.C. band while at DePauw and appeared on the stage in "The Charm School", the Senior Class Play.

However, most people know him for his athletic ability. In high school at Bainbridge, Indiana —participated in basketball, baseball, and track. Freshman year at D. P. U.—played floor guard on the basketball squad, put the shot, and hurled the discus. His sophomore year he continued these activities and added football and baseball. Fine work that year at right tackle—was the only DePauw man to make the All-State team. The following year he went to Bainbridge to teach and coach at the high school there. Came back to DePauw his senior year and played football and basketball. Last year in basketball—played in every game and was selected for the first All-State five. Graduated in '22 and received the Sigma Delta Chi cup for the best athlete and scholar.

After graduation he coached at Brazil High School until '26 when he went to Central High School in Lima, Ohio as coach of football and track. Returned to DePauw in 1927 and took charge of frosh football and basketball.—became Director of the Department of Athletics in 1930. Now coaches basketball and the line in football.

He received his A.M. from Columbia in 1930 and is now doing graduate work at Indiana University.

Coach Neal



Coach Buchheit

The senior member of the DePauw coaching staff is Coach Leroy Buchheit, who has been turning out winning track teams since 1918. Before he joined the staff of mentors at DePauw he coached at Hillsdale College in Michigan.

Next in line of seniority is Head Coach and Athletic Director Donovan C. Moffett. He is also basketball coach and line coach in football. After graduating from DePauw in 1922 he was coach at the Brazil High School in Indiana and at the Central High School in Lima, Ohio.

Another DePauw graduate is Coach Lloyd Messersmith, who came to the staff in 1930 from Shortridge High School in Indianapolis. He is baseball coach and director of Intra-mural sports.

Coach Messersmith

Coach Umbreit

Consistently good football teams is Raymond "Gaumy" Neal's aim as football coach. After graduating from Wabash College and Washington and Lee University, he came here in 1929. In 1933 his Tiger squad was the only unbeaten, untied, unscored-on eleven in the country.

Willard E. Umbreit, who joined the staff in 1932, is the latest addition to the athletic department. He is the varsity swimming instructor and the coach of all freshman squads.

Any activity has its unsung heroes and athletics is no exception. However, it seems to be an extreme case simply because athletics has so many loudly-sung heroes among the active players and the gulf between these stars and the managers and trainers is great so far as the public eye is concerned. However, in actuality the gulf is non-existant because the first class player would be the first one to give the manager his just credit. Although it is most difficult to think of a manager when a fast break on the hardwood takes the ball down to the basket or when a shifty quarterback cuts through tackle for a long gallop across the field, it is only fair to think afterwards that the hero is in condition because of a trainer's faithful rub-downs and because of a manager's diligent care of his equipment and uniform.

The Tiger grid defense and offense both led to a smash

football

DePauw's football season was spotted as far as the victories went—inexperience and injuries made a difficult time of it for the squad—three games were taken, three lost, three tied—the Neal Tigers finished in sixth place in the Little State check-up. Miami's hard hitting team was the first to down DePauw in the opener on September 26—profitable punts and adept passing netted the Miami eleven 14 points—late in the fourth period Downey intercepted a pass and DePauw scored for the lone tally of 6—this was the third defeat at Miami's hands since 1896. In the scrap Reid, Sweet, Kendall, Schiach, and Gus Villapiano received the injuries which later proved so costly. Miami later swept up the Buckeye Conference with her team—a squad unsurpassed in late Miami athletic history. The Tiger squad crashed through the following week for a 36-0 win from Oakland City in a game which featured brilliant running and passing—four regulars still on sick-list—yet Old Gold gridders gained 363 yards to 23 for the Oaks—the reserves took over later when the first stringers had the game under control—Murnane played ball in scoring position after pass from Longshore—Rulison and Johnson took it across—next Longshore slashed the line and scored—successive runs by Grummon and Downey accounted for the third tally—and before the half ended the Tigers pounced on the Oaks behind their line for two more points—in an easy-moving second half DePauw took two more touchdowns—out-passed and outweighed, Oakland City never was a serious threat in the contest. On October 10 a decrepit Tiger squad, in a downpour nearly sleet, fell in a close battle with Franklin—score was 6 to 2—November chill slowed the play of both teams, discouraged passing, and led to many boots—Grizzlies started parade which looked disastrous but the Bengals tightened and held them—then in an attack Longshore cut deep into Franklin territory—DePauw kicked out of bounds on the six yard strip and when Constable fumbled—two markers came to DePauw on a safety. After this the play was lethargic—until bad luck hit DePauw in the last period when a Franklin pass went deep over the goal to McCracken — Longshore blocked the throw but interference was ruled—Franklin chalked up six. In a game with Evansville the tilt ended in a 7 to 7 tie—both teams over-anxious—visitors had never scored on DePauw—Tigers scored in a flying start then played a defensive game—visitors made a long one to tie in the first period—no more scores in game. Injury losses were obvious to DePauw. Old Gold Day saw a thrilling last minute win—13 to 7—by the Tigers from a touted Manchester club. Manchester scored immediately on a fifty yard pass and took the extra point for a scaring start—but on a twenty yard toss DePauw retaliated—Schiach missed the kick—Second half was a punt battle—six minutes left when Banet dropped back for another kick—but it was blocked and Reid recovered—Kendall came in and in four line smashes scored. This time the kick sailed between the bars. On October 31, DePauw and Ball State slogged to a 0 to 0 tie at rainswept Muncie. Evenly matched it was a fight to a standstill. A DePauw threat when Schiach recovered fumble on fifteen yard line—but to no avail. In fourth Ball State camped on DePauw's one yard line for four downs while the entrenched Tigers held them back. In another muddy struggle Earlham was downed 19 to 6 on November 7. This was the best Tiger attack of the season—the line ripping roles in the opponents defense for Longshore and Downey. First tally after a fifty seven yard jog by Longshore—Downey made second on a left slice of forty seven yards. Grummon went through the line for the third after a pass scored for the Earlham team despite mud. Outplayed, a gamely fighting Tiger team fell to her traditional rival Wabash on Dad's Day 19 to 0. A smooth passing, accurate kicking, fast charging Wabash team kept DePauw on the defensive during the first half.

A twenty five yard pass left the Tigers trailing 6 to 0—when Reid blocked the kick for point. White caught a punt in the last quarter and made, a sensational slashing run of eighty-seven yards for a second score. The third came as a result of a pass of 25 yards from Pack to Wolff as the game and season ended for the Old Gold Tigers of Gaumy Neal and DePauw.

basketball

DePauw varsity squad swung into 1936-37 season without a single letterman—facing a stiff schedule of nineteen tilts. She ended by winning nine and losing five—winning only one of her non-conference matches—Curtain raiser was a poorly played victory over Oakland City on December 4, 26-27. The first half lead of nine points dwindled to less than nothing in the third and fourth periods—one minute to play—Stimson dropped two free throws to give DePauw the game. The team looked ragged with some flashy patches from the sophomores.

Flashes of action from varsity and intra-mural games.

Three days later in a scoring spree the Old Gold netters easily drubbed a Rose Poly team 41 to 17. Franke, Clinton and Stimson netted three field goals each, while Herb KixMiller, who is also a sophomore made his debut into collegiate hardwood competition with two baskets from the floor. But the first creditable victory came December 11 over Georgetown's team which had been highly touted. The DePauw visitors, led by Landeck, Franke, and Stimson turned on a deadly fast break that swept them to an 18 to 10 margin in the half—Georgetown never recovered. But the Bengals met their first defeat of the season at the hands of the Big Ten Illini led by the ball-handling Boudreau 44 to 24—Illinois outclassed the Tigers with championship smooth play—and besides that DePauw muffled all its chances to score. On December 17 an invading Earlham contingent gave DePauw her first conference defeat 23 to 19—coming in the last period when DePauw defence weakened, two Quaker field goals gave the game to the opponents.

Still on tour the Old Gold players trounced an Evansville squad for its one victory of a tragic vacation period. Evansville's return game at Greencastle, to have been on February 10, was cancelled later when the Ohio River went on its disaster bearing rampage . . again the Tigers lost a New Year's Day game to Drury in an overtime—at the start it was the Tigers' game—at the half the Missourians were trailing 15 to 27—but they snapped out of their disadvantage to tie the game. The Bengals apparently cracked in the final moments. The very next night another team from Missouri balked the Tigers when the Springfield five won what was largely a duel of midcourt shots 11 to 24. Again DePauw was out in front when the other team turned on the heat for a victory. Back on their own court January 5 the Tigers pounded out a 37 to 17 win over Huntington—Lindsay played for the first time since his pre-season knee injury—but the Tigers could not hit so progress was slow—in the second half Franke and KixMiller bore the brunt of both the defence and the offence. On the Franklin court January 9 DePauw suffered another defeat 32-24—both teams played poor ball—but the Tigers hit only 7 out of 41 shots and things were easy for the Grizzlies.

In the net renewal with Butler—DePauw took first game 29 to 28 in a nip and tuck fracas on January 14 at Butler. Starting as under-dogs, DePauw led by Stimson played inspired ball to bring home a win before a 3000 crowd. Franke's throw on a double foul was the winning marker. In another burst of strength—Wabash was whipped 29 to 28 on January 20—the invaders looked strong but crumbled under a last minute Tiger drive. Franklin met DePauw again—and again defeated the Bengal squad—Tigers had same trouble again—sank only six out of forty-seven tries. Red Lewis played a bang up game but the old Lindsay knee took Ed from the game. A crippled DePauw squad bowed to Earlham in Richmond 36 to 29. Injuries were responsible for a ragged first half while a fast break broke the Moffett defense in the second. Nine days later DePauw spilled the Ball State Cardinals 27 to 25 despite their reputation as the toughest in the conference. On the twentieth of February the Butler Bulldogs came and were conquered to the tune of 27 to 26. Stimson and KixMiller led the strongest defense of the year and kept DePauw in the front all the way. February 26 KixMiller and Stimson again unleashed an astounding power to take Wabash in an easy game 37 to 19. Powerful and determined Ball State came to Greencastle and went back to Muncie with some Tiger pelts. 36 to 26 told the story of the final game—a defeat for the Old Gold squad. The Teachers snapped out of an early game slump and led by the rangy Shook walked away with the game which wrote finis under a very, very spotty season.

Track is the most successful sport at Old DePauw in 1935-36—one loss and five wins in the season—Purdue stands as the only victor—Indiana State, Earlham, and Butler bow down—and DePauw takes a tri-angular meet with Ball State and Indiana Normal, and gains the Little State title. Letters go at the end of the year to the thinclads who gained points for the team's winning season: Britton, Taylor, Deuth, Buch, Gibson, Hummons, Neighbours, Lightfoot, Berry, Wise, Heintzberger, Burden, Green, Reid, Yinger, Lacy, Frees, Horst, McIlwain, Noel, and the managers Lucas Fischer, and Mal Hickok.

Pepper plays every position on the field and Dean warms up to give the crowd a look. But Rip and Pepper steal the show—and the Redbirds leave town—giving the folk something to talk about for a long while—and the final score was somewhere around 16 to 3. Bateman takes a triple and Sandy a double. Indiana Central is taken in stride and the Bloomington Hoosiers swoop down. The Crimson team is one of Big Ten's best and they take Tigers five to one. Messersmith's men get on base but do not come home—eleven die on bags. Indiana bunches hits in first, third and eighth to win. Messermen take next tilt from Indiana State by a 2 to 1 margin—Smith and Rominger bat winning marker in the last inning—both teams err frequently. Aided by three home run clouts the DePauw team downs Ball State for second time—Schilling, Bateman, and Sandberg take circuits. Tigers only get 9 hits to the Card's 12 but they hit them when it counts—the Rudicel brothers, Stout, Bendit and Thompson lead the vain attack of the heavy hitting Munciemen—Merkle, Clinton, and Bateman get two apiece for the Old Gold. Athletic relations opened with Butler as the Old Gold nine cops a 6 to 5 game—Clinton, Bateman, and Smith hit heavily for DePauw. Burdette and Cline slug for Bulldogs—Tigers trail 5 to 3 going into the ninth—bases loaded when Smith goes to plate—two and three—his single drives in two to tie score—Bateman provides Merriwell finish in tenth with a homer after two were out and the count was three and two. Timely hitting by team-mates gives Thomas his victory. Errors are costly as Tigers drop next to Indiana State—a five run lead was tossed away in the late innings—enemies take four in seventh and one in eighth on errors—Sandberg, Smith, and Hickman pace Tiger attack with two hits each—Brothers is Tiger nemesis by clubbing out three—Cartwright and Bibbs get two each. Indiana Hoosiers drop Tigers for second in a row—comic fielding on both sides—Tuck Stone strikes out nine but Tigers lose lead through the late season erring which has developed. Come back to take one from Indiana Central in ninth inning rally 10 to 9. Another is dropped to Wabash 6 to 4, however, and still another in quick succession to Indiana Central 6 to 3. However, the losing streak is finally broken by two wins—one from Butler and one from Wabash Cavemen.

DePauw rooters found plenty of action in this year's trio of cheerleaders, Alan Schneider, Allen Pullman, and Bob Henry. Schneider, veteran at leading Tiger yells, directed the organized cheering and singing which put pep into the student body during all the intercollegiate contests. His first assistant, Pullman, was always to be counted on to keep the fans plugging on the enthusiasm which threatens to slip during the dull moments of athletic contests, while the wiry and diminutive Henry was the most colorful pep-monger DePauw has known for several seasons. His tumbling in general and his drum-dives in particular were the most spectacular aspect of the squad's cheerleading. An integral part of each college athletic event, these three men served well throughout the past year and earned the plaudits which followed their displays of acrobatics and enthusiasm.

A successful season was the result of energetic training on the part of the 1936 tennis squad at DePauw. On April 21 the Old Gold netters, who appeared exceptionally strong at the opening of the season, trounced an Evansville contingent in every match to usher in the new season of court competition. On April 31, however, Indiana State took a closely contested match from the Tigers, 4 to 3. May found the DePauw net stock on the upgrade as Earlham was defeated 5 to 2, and a week later Wabash received the short end of the score. On the fifteenth and the two days following, DePauw won a meet by defeating Earlham again 5 to 2, and by taking the Ball State squad 6 to 0. The ranking players of the DePauw squad went to the state meet at Earlham May 22. Brown and Morgan progressed to the semi-finals in the doubles; while in the singles Brown was defeated by Notre Dame's McNulty, who became the state's intercollegiate singles champion, and Willis was eliminated by the defending champion, Bradford of Butler.

DePauw's 1936-1937 swimming team, although it turned in only two wins and a tie out of eight contests, showed itself not only to be on a definite up-grade, but to be capable of meeting competition in its own class. Two lettermen, Dick Voyles and Rod Smith, and a squad of capable veterans were valuably supplemented at the outset of the season by a number of strong sophomore swimmers.

DePauw lost four meets to Big Ten competition, two each going to Indiana and Purdue, and a fifth meet to a powerful Michigan State aggregation at Lansing. The Old Gold won from an old tank rival, Armour Tech of Chicago and from Wabash's new swimming team. The relay team of Hickock, Kiger, Voyles, and Craigle provided the season's thrill by winning the final event of the George Williams meet to tie the score of a heated contest. Outstanding of the few pool records made at DePauw this year was Rod Smith's 1:58.8 for the 150 yard backstroke, bettering his own previous pool record in this event.

Missing the valuable services of seniors Rod Smith and Mal Hickok and sophomore Tod Duffin, on whom Coach Umbreit was counting heavily in the dashes, the squad will nevertheless show considerable strength next year with Pullman, Voyles, Craigle, Salisbury, Ed Morgan, Ross, Leslie, Lessman, Marlatt, and Kiger probably returning.

The 1936-1937 swimming season revealed much potential strength on DePauw's freshman swimming squad. Frank Jerome showed great promise in the diving events, although given no opportunity at competition. Jack Ohmans appeared to be quite capable in the breast stroke, while Edmonds and Downey seemed strong at backstroke and free-style respectively.

March 3, the rhinies had their customary telegraphic meet with the Purdue frosh. Coming out on the short end of a 52 to 21 score, the Tiger Cubs nevertheless won the 400 yard relay with Rohn, Edmonds, Jerome, and Downey swimming. Edmonds placed second in the 150 yard backstroke, and Ohmans placed second in his event, the 200 yard breast stroke. It is hoped that next year's varsity will be strengthened by the addition of some of these men.

cross country

Composed entirely of sophomores during the 1936 cross country season, the squad showed up creditably despite dropping all three of the meets which enhanced the half recess of the varsity gridiron contests. At Crawfordsville on October 17 the Old Gold harriers gave way to the Wabash runners by a scant margin of one point, 28-27. DePauw placed every other man with Sohl in second position, Clutter in fourth, and Wyman in sixth. November 7, Earlham with one of the finest cross country teams in the state took a decisive victory on the Earlham home course by defeating DePauw 39-16. Sohl, who was the Tiger's first man, placed fifth in the race. A third and final meet was held on the Greencastle course with Wabash, who eked out a slightly greater margin than in the first meet and won with a score of 29-26 on November 14. Sohl again finished second, Clutter fourth, Bates seventh, and Wyman eighth. Wally Sohl was DePauw's best man on this year's squad, although Clutter, Wyman, Bates, Campbell, Jenkins, and Rogers did well for their initial season, too. The cross country team sorely missed the veterans, Lacy, Taylor, and Trueblood.

DePauw's freshman football squad turned in a mediocre, 50-50, 1936-1937 season, ending a three year record of undefeated seasons for Old Gold rhinies. The freshmen did display fine talent throughout the season, however, a fact very promising to the varsity. October 30, the Old Gold frosh went to Indianapolis, home of Butler University, only to lose to the Bulldogs by the stinging score of 35 to 0 in a renewal of football relations between the two schools. The strong Butler contingent that had already whipped Wabash 25 to 0 consistently and thoroughly outplayed the Tigers. A week later, November 7, an invading squad of Wabash frosh tangled with a smooth working, fighting Old Gold crew and were trounced, 27 to 0. Coach Umbreit deserves much credit for the fine running and blocking form the first year men displayed in this game. Bartley and Edgar, who bore the brunt of most of the ball carrying together, and Rohn, and Scott each scored a touchdown. The entire freshman season consisted of only these two games.

DePauw's yearling netters fared badly this year dropping three out of four tilts this season. Although Umbreit cut his team to an exceptionally good squad they did not seem able to clip off the extra margin of victory in most places. Wabash took the first contest January 20 by a tally of 39-33. Blemker was high point man with Honan and Murray close behind him. The lone victory came February 13 on the Indiana State floor with a large margin, 33 to 22. The third game was dropped to Butler 34 to 30. Ahead at the half, DePauw fell a victim to a scoring spree of Butler's Vandermeer. Montooth and Holman led the scoring, with the Little Bengals using a fast break game to better effect than their previous offense. On February 26, Wabash made it two by defeating the Tiger Cubs again by a score of 29 to 21. Dropping a 7 to 0 lead, DePauw slipped to the short end of a 20 to 15 half time score. The Bengal high point men were Farber and Murray.

Umbreit issues call for freshman batsmen—thirty-seven turn in their names—squad looks promising—cuts made until the roster numbers twenty-one—daily practice builds up perfection—scrimmages with the varsity develops keen rivalry. Rhinies lose to Wabash—batting weakness emphasized as they garner only two hits off the pitching of Dortsch—team lines with Lewis, Overstrom, Bock, Knarr, Bailey, Snider, Koepper, Brown, Randels, and Levy—Seven miscues costly for DePauw—Pitching looks good. Revenge sweet as Wabash greenies fall in return game, 10 to 7—errors decline in number—Shead, Clutter, Bailey, and Levy get two hits for Old Gold—Randels hits for circuit in pinch role—Levy's circus catch is fielding gem of the day—Marciniak shows well for the little Cavemen—yearlings get even break in abbreviated schedule—outlook for next year's varsity brightened by freshman performances. Bulldogs from Indianapolis have too much strength for DePauw—final score shows Butler with 74, while DePauw owns 47—lack of field event performers ruins Tiger yearlings' chances of winning—Campbell runs mile well—Sohl trims field in the quarter, while Jones and Jenkins grab second and third in the century—Merrill and Barr do likewise in the shot—DePauw gets another second and third in the half mile—Jones and Jenkins duplicate their performance in the 220 yard dash—Merrill cops the discus and javelin to lead the day's scorers—Life wins the broad jump and Wyman adds three points in the low hurdles to complete the Tiger scoring.

once upon a time - - long ago

when students went to class to the tune of the tinkling of cowbells which hung from the necks of lowly animals grazing on the campus, and when trustees were remunerated by being given hay cutting privileges on campus—DePauw was Asbury—and a very humble college it was indeed. Even as the students of today object to the hour situation so those students found the early prayer a little trying—because it was held shortly after sun-rise and was compulsory. These same students batched for themselves because they found a dollar and a half rather a high price for room and board. And in order to provide a more highly developed social life for the time not expended in study two literary societies were formed. At first the meetings were held on Friday evenings, but the faculty objected in favor of afternoon meetings, for they contended that the meetings lasted until ten o'clock—late enough to endanger the health and the morals of the young men. After a student rebellion many expulsions occurred—thus it is obvious that an attempt to keep the college on a purely scholastic basis was an early idea. Once there was more distinct class dress than now even, for besides the cap of the freshman there was a plug hat of the sophomore class. However, this hat was more honorable than the so-called rhinie pot. In these early days it was also customary to cremate the books—especially the texts of Greek and Latin at the culmination of the year. This ceremony was conducted with pomp and solemnity befitting such an occasion. When the dog which had long been the school mascot died, a student is said to have remarked, "This is a fitting end to oc(a)cur." Which ought to be a proof of something or other about the educational system as a whole way back then.

inter-frat

inter-soror

ernity sing

The inter-fraternity sing is a song contest sponsored each year for the men's organizations on the campus by Phi Mu Alpha, men's musical honorary. The trophy is a handsome bronze loving cup surmounted by a winged victory. The organization which wins it three times successively gains permanent possession of it. Each group wishing to participate selects two of its fraternity songs to sing before the group of six judges who are scattered throughout the large audience which always attends a sing. Formerly the judges were faculty members, but in order to encourage objectivity outside judges were invited to officiate last year. The various glee clubs were judged by a point system based upon a consideration of their entrance and exit, stage presence, general appearance, tone quality, harmony, interpretation and general musical ability.

Last year the winner was Phi Delta Theta. Second and third places were awarded to Beta Theta Pi and to Alpha Tau Omega. Previously Phi Kappa Psi had been successful for two consecutive years.

The inter-sorority sing is a similar song festival and contest sponsored by Mu Phi Epsilon, women's musical honorary, for the sorority glee clubs. Last year the contest was held in Meharry Hall before an enthusiastic audience of faculty and students. Competition was high among the women's organizations. The final victor was Alpha Phi, closely followed by Kappa in second place. Alpha Chi and Tri Delt were tied for third place.

The mechanism of this contest is almost identical to that used by Phi Mu Alpha in the inter-fraternity sing. The judges are selected as the men's judges were originally chosen. Three liberal arts professors award points on entrance and exit, stage presence, and general appearance; while three instructors from the faculty of the music school judge tone quality, harmony, and interpretation. The award is a silver trophy.

The aim of the intramural association is to provide wholesome physical activity for men students of the college who are not on the varsity teams. In order to facilitate the organization of teams, the students on the campus are grouped into an intramural association composed of seventeen groups. These groups are thirteen fraternities, two groups from the men's dormitories, and one independent group. This association is governed by representatives from each one of the groups. The head manager of the sport in session becomes director of that particular intramural. The executive committee is composed of the officers of the intramural association, consisting of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and the director of intramurals. The executive committee for the season 1936-37 were John Honan, president; Thomas Clinton, vice-president; May Clark and A. Anderson secretary, Emil Bavasi, the treasurer, and L. L. Messersmith, director of intramurals. The intramural program is divided into two groups—major and minor sports, for group competition, and various individual tournaments. The major and minor do not denote any difference of value between sports, but are used as a means of distinguishing between the sports in round-robin and the elimination schedules and in the awarding of points toward the all-intramural trophies.

men's intramurals

The intramurals at DePauw are placed on a point system basis. In a major sport each team earns fifty points for participation, and additional points are added according to their final standings. Participation in a minor sport gives a team twenty-five points. Ten points are deducted if a team forfeits a game. At the end of the year the team having the most points wins the all round team trophy.

Intramurals at DePauw have become a very interesting and exciting part of the school curriculum. The enthusiasm and keen spirit shown at intramural contests are proofs that intramurals are a worthwhile project.

This year's winners are: Beta Theta Pi, basketball; Phi Delta Theta, baseball; Phi Kappa Psi, track; Lambda Chi Alpha, golf; Delta Tau Delta, tennis; Phi Delta Theta, ping pong; Phi Gamma Delta, speedball; Phi Kappa Psi, swimming; and the Faculty won volleyball.

women's intramurals

The women's intramural sports are classified as individual, inter-class, and inter-house, and tournaments are held each season for the different sports. Women's intramurals are sponsored by the Women's Sport Association; each sport is under the direction of a member of the W.S.A. Board. Last spring Alpha Chi Omega won the inter-house golf tournament. Ruth Locke won the fall tennis tourney. Speedball was won by Alpha Phi. Inter-class basketball was won by the freshmen. Miss Riggs and Miss Benton were the winners in the doubles tournament in paddle tennis. The winner of the ping pong tournament was Virginia Nilles.

There are three preliminary swimming meets; the winner of each is eligible to compete in the spring meet to determine the championship. The dormitories won the first meet and Alpha Chi Omega won the second.

The winners of these tournaments will receive engraved silver cups at the annual W.S.A. banquet held in the spring.

One of the best things about DePauw is the fine country. If you can find the students on their picnic at the left you'll know what we mean. It is even possible to study outside to a very good advantage. They're really studying too—those Phi Psi freshmen below—at least they said so!

In Appreciation

Every year the merchants of Greencastle and other cities co-operate by doing their share toward making the Mirage a financial success.

The staff appreciates the spirit of the merchants who co-operated in making this year's book a success, and appeals to the students of DePauw University to show their appreciation by trading with these business establishments whenever possible.

In 1934, Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., completed an extensive modernization of steam-using facilities, including a Webster Moderator System for central heat control of 22 existing buildings of various age and equipment, many one-pipe, some two-pipe and two hot water installations.

A test demonstrated that the control system provides adequate facilities for effecting a 25% reduction in heating expense. Further experience during 1935-36 has proved the value of the Moderator System in effecting minimum steam consumption with minimum operating force.

Previous to 1911, no permanent record of student grades seems to have been kept by Music School.

In the spring of 1917, one hundred and fifty girls enlisted in military training. Their efforts were scoffed at by the men of the campus. The Women's Self Government Association arranged for the distribution of boxes prepared for the soldiers by the coeds, and at least one box was sent to every DePauw man in the service. A great amount of knitting was done and contests were conducted among the sororities to see which one could supply the largest number of articles. On January 19, 1918 the DePauw DAILY reported that since school had opened that fall there had been knitted 230 sweat-

The devotional chapel largely owes its being to Dean Robert McCutchan who inaugurated it at the first of his term as dean of music school as the proper outcome of years of emphasis on good music and proper attention to the proprieties of formal occasions.

At the turn of the century, fraternity halls which had been the regular place of meeting for social organizations began to give way to rented houses. Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi were the two first fraternities to have houses of their own. In the 1920's a wave of buildings seems to have

During the World War, the Sigma Chi and Beta Theta Pi houses were made into women's residences since all the men lived in barracks.

One of the most horrifying yet beautiful spectacles that ever occurred on the DePauw campus was the unfortunate fire in Mansfield Hall in the year 1933-1934. Inadequate fire fighting equipment allowed a complete destruction of the building.

GREENCASTLE, IND.

The first game to be played on an intercollegiate scale at DePauw was baseball. The year was 1866, and the opponent Wabash. In 1885 DePauw won the state championship. The first football game was played with Butler in 1884.

The scholastic standards for which DePauw stood found recognition in 1888-90 when a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the second west of the Alleghenies, was founded.

In 1872-73 there were 360 students here; in 1873-74 the enrollment was 450; and in 1874-75 there were 451 in attendance. The number of volumes in the several libraries was about ten thousand.

There were four possible courses which a student might take at DePauw in the eighteen seventies. The classical course, leading to the A.B. degree, was considered the most complete and required a full schedule of Latin and Greek studies. The scientific course, leading to the B.S. degree, permitted the student to substitute scientific studies for some of the Latin and Greek; the Biblical course especially designed to prepare those intending to enter the ministry, while the normal course was to qualify for teaching.

The traditional cap and gown appeared at DePauw in the year 1894, and it has been boasted that since that year the juniors have never missed a time in attempting to confiscate the robes.

The numerals on the standpipe, painted by each freshman class unless the sophomores prevent were first painted there by the class in 1889.

TWO PORTLAND CEMENTS
HIGHEST QUALITY — ALWAYS

Concrete and cement are almost as old as civilization. Many examples of concrete structures built during the Roman Empire are still in excellent condition. Yet cement manufacture as we now know it is of comparatively recent origin. Standards of quality and manufacturing control have been increased steadily so that the slow hardening product of the Ancients is today truly in keeping with the tempo of the times.

Now, through improved manufacturing processes, concrete made with Lone Star Cement is service-strong in a few days, instead of months, and concrete made with "Incor" 24-Hour Cement can be poured today and used tomorrow.

Lone Star Cement, because of its high quality and rigidly-maintained uniformity, is widely used throughout the nation for streets, highways, buildings, bridges, dams and all other concrete work. "Incor"* 24-Hour Cement is a true portland cement—made of the same basic materials as Lone Star, with the same basic characteristics — the same ultimate strength, durability, dependable uniformity—and is used where time saving means money.

Both Lone Star and "Incor" Cements are manufactured at the Greencastle mill of the Lone Star Cement Corporation.

DePauw's old gold color was first used at a Wabash-DePauw game in 1890. Seemingly, 1890 was a year of great school spirit for the DePauw yell was inaugurated that year too.

The school song "In Praise of Old DePauw" was sung for the first time at chapel on April 4, 1893 by the glee club. The words and music were taken from the Princeton song "In Praise of Old Nassua".

De Pups of DePauw

Before the days of three hundred pound dogs and little terriers, DePauw had a college dog owned or at least claimed by the entire student body. Jack belonged to the University. He was allowed access to every spot that a student could go. Once a rival school dognapped him, but a loyal student, disguised as a tramp, followed and managed to free him and bring him back. In 1898 he died and was buried just south of East college. A crayon enlargement of his photograph, made by an art student in the university, hung, until 1909 in the corridor by the entrance to Meharry Hall. Finally it was transferred to the Registrar's office. Since Jack's day, various fraternities and sororities have had their mascots, from the Alpha Chi current dog, Zeus, who is not as big as a medium size cat, to Thibideau, the Sigma Nu St. Bernard, who tips the scale at something like three hundred and fifty, from Johnson House, Dinah, a danny dinmont with sawed off legs, to Tinker, the Beta Great Dane of 1935, from Fritz, the Theta police dog, to Biddy, Bucher's ferocious airedale, from the rather matronly Phi Psi police dog to Double Ugly, the half chow half hound creature that roams Anderson street. These are only the recognized hounds. There are many more who stroll into classes and out, making themselves more at home than visiting professors. None of them though have achieved quite the prominence of the first nor will they as long as the student body is still paying assessments for the Field House since it is rumored that house bills in all frats with dogs are fifty percent higher because of the sausage bill.

Examinations were far different before the Civil War at DePauw from what they are today. After each professor had examined his class the official visitors were then permitted to have their turn at questioning. Some of these visitors were teachers from other institutions and thoroughly capable of testing the knowledge of the students.

The MIRAGE, DePauw's yearbook, appeared first in 1886. Until 1900 its publication was not continuous, but since that date it has not missed a year.

Not until 1907, did the greatest of DePauw holidays—Old Gold Day—make its appearance. At first it was designated especially to put a formal stop to scrapping between freshmen and sophomores in the fall; only later did it become a home-coming day.

Until 1926, dancing as a social diversion was outlawed on the campus, and fraternities and sororities were compelled to find other means of entertainment at their formal parties. From the beginning of the present century to the opening of the World War, these entertainments became increasingly elaborate until it became necessary for the university authorities to limit the amount of expenditure. The sororities often entertained their guests with original plays and much ingenuity was displayed both by the fraternities and the sororities in devising new and unusual social diversions.

Dear millie, – Ill give you credit – you always get in on the last (jokes). Youre swell millie and I like you.

Be good,
Julie Oakes

Birthday
June 20.

Sally E Elliott – Kokomo, Indiana.

Dear Little Spunk,

I'm awarding you credit for being able to live with that room-mate you had this year. How cured you of it?

Millie, dear,
I don't know what
dear Lucy Rose Laud will do without me lonely quiet voices. I still echo their voices. I talked as loud as they gave us credit for Thanks Millie
